

Green Berets Lost This One but Destroyed 7 Tanks

By JOHN T. WHEELER

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — When North Vietnamese tanks rumbled out of Laos Wednesday to attack the Lang Vei Special Forces camp, the U.S. Green Beret troopers inside decided the strange sound came from the camp's erratic generator. Minutes later the Americans, South Vietnamese and Montagnard tribesmen were battling desperately to keep the iron giants from overwhelming them. They lost the fight but destroyed seven of the 10 tanks which the North Vietnamese used for the first time in the war.

The attack began shortly after midnight with tanks hitting the camp on two sides and an infantry assault up the middle.

Before the onslaught against the camp three miles west of the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh, the North Vietnamese pounded it with a furious artillery and mortar barrage.

"How much did they fire? The Lord only knows," Spec. 4

Franklin Doores, 23, of Waynesboro, Va., said. The tanks smashed through the camp's outer defenses with ease. A wounded American survivor commented: "That barbed wire just doesn't slow tanks down at all."

The defenders fought the tanks with recoilless rifles and grenades. Men clambered atop the tanks, which were firing 76mm rounds into the camp's bunkers, and tried to toss grenades down the vehicles' hatches. The battle ended quickly. A Special Forces radio operator called Khe Sanh. "I've got two tanks sitting on top of my command bunker." Then the radio went dead. It was feared that the entire camp was wiped out. But a strange siege was under way. The headquarters bunker was under three feet of reinforced concrete and two feet of steel. The tanks tried to break this down. They couldn't.

S. Sgt. Emanuel Phillips, 32, of Portland, Ore., said North Vietnamese demolition men began shoving satchel charges down the bunker's ventilating shafts.

"They entertained themselves for several hours this way," said Phillips. "They were very industrious but not very smart."

The sergeant said had the Communists used larger satchel charges instead of satchel charges they would have destroyed the bunker.

Tear gas and incendiary grenades followed the satchel charges. The Special Forces men donned gas masks and put out the fires set by the grenades, Phillips said the eight men in the bunker played dead for several hours hoping the North Vietnamese would go away. Then two large charges came down the air shaft and destroyed part of the bunker.

Six of the eight Americans were wounded and some were in great pain.

All the while heavy U.S. air strikes pounded the camp as a relief force led by other Green Berets tried to reach the beleaguered defenders. It failed and took heavy casualties.

Twelve hours after the attack had begun, Phillips and his comrades decided they had to get out. The camp commander radioed for all the air cover he could get. As the planes made dummy runs without dropping bombs, the men who could walk lifted the seriously wounded and ran from the bunker. One of the eight men did not make it to the helicopters and is listed as missing.

Phillips said that when the surviving Green Berets got together later they agreed that 10 Communist tanks had attacked and seven had been destroyed. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 6)

Drive to China Sea Aim of Red Forces

SAIGON (AP) — The long-expected Communist offensive to drive U.S. forces from the two northernmost provinces of South Vietnam may have started.

North Vietnamese troops made a heavy artillery and ground attack on the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh today after taking the Lang Vei Special Forces camp nearby in the northwest corner of the country.

AP correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Khe

Sanh that the Red gunners fired more than 300 artillery, rocket and mortar rounds into Marine positions there, and North Vietnamese troops drove the Marines from part of a hilltop outpost a mile from the perimeter of the Khe Sanh base.

The Leathernecks counterattacked and, with heavy artillery and air support, drove the North Vietnamese down the hill.

During the attack on Lang Vei Wednesday, the enemy troops ringing Khe Sanh moved in close-er to the American lines. Marine officers at the base believed a major assault was imminent on the Marine base and the air strip which is its chief avenue of supply and reinforcement.

Officers at Khe Sanh said the Communists appear bent on a drive to the South China Sea along east-west Route 9, the western end of which Khe Sanh guards.

The last American, South Vietnamese and Montagnard forces were driven from the Lang Vei camp three miles west of Khe Sanh after an 18-hour siege in which the defenders suffered heavy casualties.

14 of 24 Escape

Fourteen of the 24 Americans escaped, and eight of them were wounded, some critically. The other 10 were dead, captured or trying to make it to Khe Sanh.

Of about 400 South Vietnamese and Montagnard irregulars in the camp, some 25 wounded were lifted to safety by U.S. helicopters along with the U.S. troops. Nearly 150 more irregulars made it to the Khe Sanh base during the night or today, leaving about 225 dead or missing.

Earlier reports said the North Vietnamese used nine tanks in the attack on Lang Vei, and the defenders knocked out five of them with recoilless rifles and grenades thrown into their hatches. But after talking things over in Khe Sanh, the surviving Americans agreed there were 10 tanks and they got seven.

WW 2 Tanks

First reports of the battle also identified the tank as the Russian T34, but U.S. officers reported today that an aerial photograph showed they were the Russian PT76, a lighter World War II tank which weighs 15.4 tons and carries a 76mm cannon and a 7.6mm machine gun.

Elsewhere in the northern part of South Vietnam, U.S. Marines pushed their drive through the streets of Hue, the old imperial capital on the coast, battling Communist troops in the south and southwest sections of the city for the 10th day.

South Vietnamese troops, trying to clear the southwest corner of the walled citadel across the Perfume River, were still meeting stiff resistance. South Vietnamese headquarters said the enemy troops inside the citadel may have been reinforced.

Scattered Saigon Action

Scattered street fighting continued in several sections of Saigon as the Viet Cong guerrillas were reported breaking up into small groups.

The daily allied communiques told of heavy ground fighting up and down the country outside South Vietnam's cities and towns which were the target of the Communists' biggest offensive of the war so far, launched last week.

The U.S. Command said as a result of the Communist assaults in the cities, 24,662 of the enemy had been killed in the nine days from the first attacks Jan. 30 until last night. There were 2,043 allied dead during that period, the command said, including 703 Americans.

Zoning Board

A First in Rosendale Town

By LYNN MULVANEY

The establishment of a seven-man zoning board, a first for the Town of Rosendale, took place last night with the appointment of members to terms ranging from one to seven years.

The action was taken on recommendation of the town's planning board.

Named to serve were Norman Tierney, Bloomington, seven-year term; Martin Tully, High Falls, six years; the Rev. Richard Lake, Bloomington, five years; Robert Spindler, Binnewater, five years; Charles Lincoln, Tillson, three years; Douglas Saar, Tillson, one year; Joseph Petras, Tillson, three years; Robert Morrow, Tillson, two years.

Announcement was made that former town justice, Daniel McMonagle has turned his 1967 town books over to the town board for audit. The auditing was scheduled for the coming week.

At the January meeting of the board, it was revealed that McMonagle had failed at that time to present the books when requested.

Three new constables and two deputy town clerks were also appointed last night. Named to the constabulary on a three-month probationary basis were: Robert Raciot of Tillson, Franz Muller of Rosendale and Harold O'Byrne of Tillson. Their appointments bring the total number of constables to nine.

Chief Murphy Is Retiring

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Kingston Police Chief Robert F. Murphy today announced his retirement from the department effective May 17.

Murphy, will however, be on terminal leave until that time, making Deputy Chief Grover S. Hoffay acting chief.

Murphy was elevated to the post on August 20, 1959. He had been acting chief upon the retirement of Chief Raymond Van Buren in May of 1958.

He will be with the department for 32 years on March 1. In his retirement statement, Murphy said, "I have no immediate plans for the future. However, I do not intend to retire to a rocking chair. At a later date in all probability I will get into another field of endeavor."

Chief Murphy declared that, "Thirty-two years is a long time. However, I do not regret one moment of it. I feel privileged that I have been able to serve the fine citizens of this Old Colonial City for so many years."

According to Henry P. Elghmey, a member of the board of police commissioners, the board will meet on or about Feb. 15 to appoint a new police chief.

Elghmey said that a number of police officers, including Acting Chief Hoffay, took a civil service examination for chief and deputy chief in November of last year.

Another man to take the exam

POLICE CHIEF ROBERT MURPHY

was Acting Deputy Police Chief inf. Cross for "extraordinary achievement" on many high altitude, heavy bombardment attacks over Germany and German-occupied Europe. He was in the service from Sept. 1942 to Oct. 1945. Named a patrolman March 1, 1936, he became a sergeant Nov. 1, 1946, gained a lieutenant ancy Feb. 17, 1955 and was named deputy chief Dec. 26, 1957.

He had served with the U. S. Army Air Force and was an engineer and top turret gunner on the Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress "Lizzy Belle."

The Murphy retirement statement offers no explanation for the action other than he had been with the department for "a long time."

Murphy went on to thank "the members of the Board of Police Commissioners, past and present, for their help and understanding through the years."

"Your police department is at full strength today for the first time in years," Murphy declared, adding, "The salary has been adjusted by the present administration and for this we say, 'Thank you, Ray.'"

The chief concluded his remarks by saying, "So I'll say, 'So long, fellows. Good luck and God bless you and may the wind always be at your back.'"

Chief Murphy had been honored by a number of civic and service leaders and organizations.

He was honored by Kingston Lodge 970, Loyal Order of the Moose, in 1965, for his work with the child safety campaign in cooperation with the National Child Safety Council.

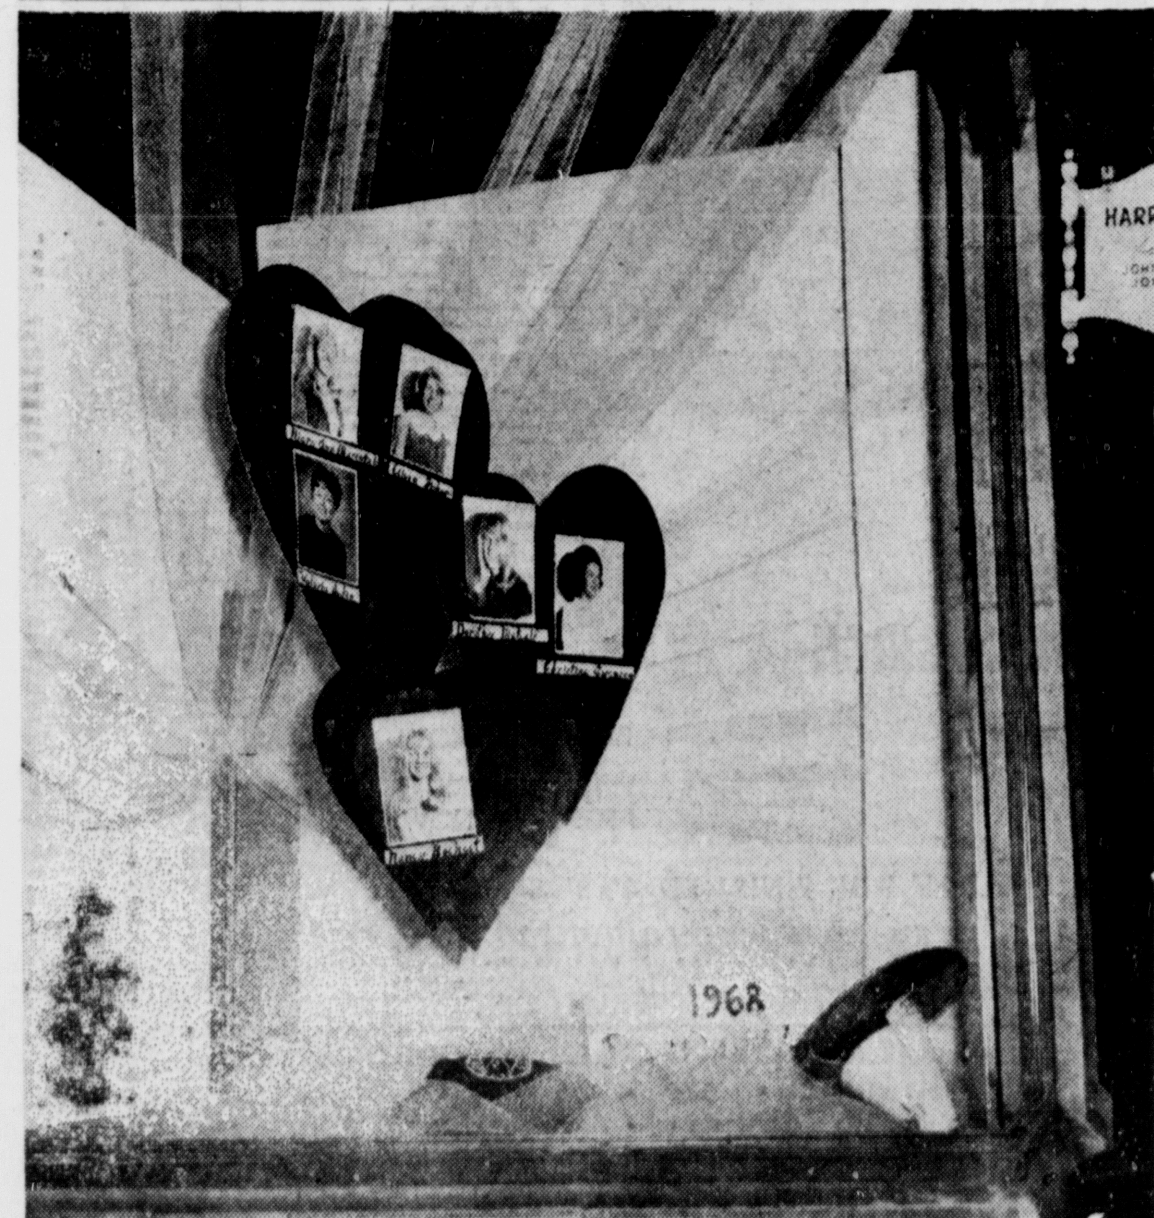

Murphy is also a member of the board of directors of the Kingston Boys Club.

In 1958, Chief Murphy was cleared of all charges against him in a departmental trial stemming from the 1957 investigation of the police department.

At the time, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock stated, in a letter to Murphy, "Never were more groundless charges leveled against anybody. You were the victim of 'politics' in its most sordid form."

Encouraging Signs For Ship Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield calls North Korea's identification of the USS Pueblo's dead and wounded an encouraging sign the crew may be released. But the State Department cautions against expecting a quick follow-up. Mansfield said in an interview he is optimistic because Panmunjom negotiations with the Communists are "being carried out on a reasonable level without the usual vituperation from the other side." "I think that the North Koreans' release of the names of the dead and wounded is an encouraging sign that we may get the crew members back," he said. Significant Move Mansfield, being briefed daily by the Johnson administration, said he regards as significant the U.S. removal of the aircraft carrier Enterprise from the sea of Japan, where it was stationed after the North Koreans captured the intelligence-gathering Pueblo and her 83-man crew. Sources at the United Nations said removal of the Enterprise was suggested to the United States last week by Hungary's U.N. Ambassador Karoly Csatorday, who said it would be a conciliatory gesture. Still sailing in the Sea of Japan are two other American carriers, plus destroyers and support ships, with about 20 vessels making up the force. Meanwhile, the Soviets have moved 10 or 15 warships into the same area. State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey called "positive" the furnishing of the list of the Pueblo's dead and injured. But he added: "I don't want that act to lead to an assumption that we feel a breakthrough or a conclusion of this case is in any way imminent." Additional meetings are expected to be held with the North Koreans, he said. Will Be Replaced Chief U.S. negotiator at Panmunjom is Rear Adm. John V. Smith. Pentagon sources said he is due to be replaced by April 1, in what they called a routine change, by Army Brig. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward. Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., deploring the death of an Oregon man in the seizure of the Pueblo said "it raises the question: Is what we are accomplishing worth the price we are paying?" "What in North Korea was worth risking our ship and its men and the chances of setting off an even greater war?" Hatfield asked.

Scattered Saigon Action Scattered street fighting continued in several sections of Saigon as the Viet Cong guerrillas were reported breaking up into small groups. Zoning Board

A First in Rosendale Town

By LYNN MULVANEY

The establishment of a seven-man zoning board, a first for the Town of Rosendale, took place last night with the appointment of members to terms ranging from one to seven years. Announcement was made that former town justice, Daniel McMonagle has turned his 1967 town books over to the town board for audit. The auditing was scheduled for the coming week. At the January meeting of the board, it was revealed that McMonagle had failed at that time to present the books when requested. Three new constables and two deputy town clerks were also appointed last night. Named to the constabulary on a three-month probationary basis were: Robert Raciot of Tillson, Franz Muller of Rosendale and Harold O'Bryne of Tillson. Their appointments bring the total number of constables to nine.

Virginia Prandoni and Prudence Savino were approved as deputy clerks and the resignation of Marie Lamb, who formerly held the post was accepted. The renewal of the contract between the town and village for fire protection in the east-west district was approved by the town's newly elected board. All members signed the contract which will be passed to the village for its endorsement. Supervisor Gerard DeFelicis stressed that the contract is exactly the same as the one entered into previously by last year's board. Raises were approved for the dump custodian and the telephone dispatcher with the custodian receiving a ten dollar a week increase and the dispatcher, five dollars monthly increase. George Mollenhauer, president of the Rosendale Library Board of Trustees requested that the amount of the annual town contribution to the library be increased. He said that his board has had to curtail book purchases and is unable to make capital improvements. He explained that it costs $2,800 just to "open the library doors." Saying "books are our product", he urged that the $1,500 now received from the town be increased. It was noted that the village contributes $200 and it was suggested that Mollenhauer approach that board also.

$14 Million Expansion For Phone Co.

Plans for a $14 million communications expansion and improvement program for the Mid-Hudson region in 1968—largest in the region's history—were announced today by New York Telephone.

In the Kingston area alone, the company expects to spend more than $3.5 million—up $1.4 million from 1967, according to company manager William J. Pearson.

The 1968 program includes major cable projects in preparation for the company's plan to expand many toll-free calling areas in this region by late 1969. It also includes outlays to replace some existing facilities as well as for work in area central offices.

"Continuing heavy investments and technological improvements will be required in future years to keep pace with an expanding populace seeking ever-improving telephone service," Pearson said.

54,000 Phones

The expansion of communications services is illustrated by the addition of more than 2,000 new phones in 1967 in the area served by the Kingston business office — boosting to over 54,000 the number of telephones in this region.

The number of local and long-distance calls on an average day rose more than 11,000 in the past year alone. Kingston area customers averaged over 145,000 calls a day compared to 134,000 in 1966.

The payroll for the 373 New York Telephone employees (up from 351 a year ago) who serve the Kingston-Saugerties area totaled $2.3 million.

The company, the state's largest taxpayer, paid $178 million in state and local taxes in 1967. In this area alone, the payment of local taxes amounted to over $350,000.

Last year the company opened a new business office in the heart of one of the city's urban renewal sites and converted its former business office, at 449 Broadway, into a telephone employment office.

Buried Cable Projects

Pearson noted that several buried cable projects were undertaken in the area to provide new residential developments with out-of-sight service.

The increasing amount of cable being placed below ground is in accord with the company's efforts to assist in beautification projects while expanding the area's communications capacity. Upstate the company placed 4.3 million feet of cable below ground in 1967—about half of the total installed during the year.

Among the new services introduced by the company in 1967 were:

—Home Econ-O-Call, a bargain calling plan for residence customers with individual lines. This optional offering permits up to $24 worth of calls for $29, a saving of 20 per cent.

—Lower interstate long distance rates, featuring a "midnight to 7 A. M." dial rate of 75 cents for a call across the country.

—Apartment house service, which lets a person open the front door by pressing a button on his telephone. Handicapped people find this service especially valuable.

—The Triline phone, a sleek model with the dial built into the handset. The Triline set has been recognized for design excellence by New York's Museum of Modern Art.

In 1968, Pearson said, the company plans to offer additional new features.

Among them will be a new Data-Speed page printer that can operate 12 times faster than the speediest conventional tele-typewriter, printing up to 1,200 words a minute. It forms individual characters from electronically controlled jets of ink. Unveiled recently by Teletype Corporation (subsidiary of Western Electric, the Bell System's manufacturing arm), the receive-only printer is expected to be available in limited quantities later this year.

Factory Explosion

By D. M. KREISHER

CHICAGO (AP) — Fire and a series of explosions ripped a sausage factory Wednesday killing six persons and injuring 78.

Two persons were reported missing and were feared buried in the rubble. They are Roy R. Laidly, 61, company president, and an unidentified woman employee.

Three of the dead and 18 of the injured were firemen who were fighting the blaze when the main explosion shattered the building. A policeman said the blast hurled bodies of firemen and workers across a street. "People were running, falling, screaming everywhere," said Frank Shear, 52, general manager of the plant. "You could see bodies going up in the air."

A bystander, Charles Peppers, 23, said he saw a boy, about 10, with a badly cut face run out of a damaged house across the street from the factory.

"Help me, mister, help me!" the kid was screaming," Peppers said. "I lifted him over a fence but he ran away and I couldn't catch him."

Windows were shattered in buildings and cars a block from the Mickleberry Sausage Co., located on the South Side, near the International Amphitheatre. Cars parked on streets along the building and in a used car lot across the street were battered by the debris.

About 250 firemen with 50 pieces of equipment battled the fire for hours in freezing temperatures before bringing it under control.

The injured, many of them spectators watching the fire, quickly filled nearby hospital emergency wards and were taken to hospitals miles from the scene as the casualties mounted.

About 35 persons were thought to have been in the factory, which normally employs about 110, when the fire started. Most of the day shift already had left.

Witnesses said there was a small explosion followed by dense smoke about five minutes before the main blast. Most of the employees fled during that interval.

A night-shift worker, Joe Ryan, used a steel bar to rip a lock off a door so employees could escape.

"We didn't have much time," Ryan said.

A number of office employees, however, were trapped on the second floor. Firemen were trying to remove them when they were caught by the large explosion.

Police said the driver of a gasoline truck, Bernard de Young, told them his truck "hit something" in an alley at the rear of the building and caught fire.

Fire authorities said the explosion may have been caused by gasoline or gas fumes flowing into the building from the burning truck. The main force of the blast blew the front of the building, heavily damaging homes and stores across the street.

The factory is in a residential and light industrial area near the stock yards.

Sanitation Men Defy Back to Work Order

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's 10,000 striking sanitation men defied an order to return to work today and Mayor John V. Lindsay asked Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for state assistance to cope with growing five-foot garbage piles.

The state assistance included possible use of the National Guard.

Rockefeller canceled an early morning appointment and was in the city.

Lindsay also issued an executive order authorizing the temporary transfer of 3,000 city employees, chiefly laborers and truck drivers, to emergency sanitation duty.

The mayor, vowing to "fight lawlessness with every lawful resource," had ordered the striking sanitation men to return to work by 7 a.m. today. A spokesman for the Department of Sanitation said tersely: "The men did not report for work."

Today's mayor's session in White Plains will be chaired by Mayor John H. Connors of Mechanicville, president of the conference. Sessions will deal with the development of employer-employee relations in the public sector and employer-employee attitudes.

The conference will run to Friday afternoon but Gallo is not expected to attend tomorrow's session.

where," said Frank Shear, 52, general manager of the plant. "You could see bodies going up in the air."

A bystander, Charles Peppers, 23, said he saw a boy, about 10, with a badly cut face run out of a damaged house across the street from the factory.

"Help me, mister, help me!" the kid was screaming," Peppers said. "I lifted him over a fence but he ran away and I couldn't catch him."

Windows were shattered in buildings and cars a block from the Mickleberry Sausage Co., located on the South Side, near the International Amphitheatre. Cars parked on streets along the building and in a used car lot across the street were battered by the debris.

About 250 firemen with 50 pieces of equipment battled the fire for hours in freezing temperatures before bringing it under control.

The injured, many of them spectators watching the fire, quickly filled nearby hospital emergency wards and were taken to hospitals miles from the scene as the casualties mounted.

About 35 persons were thought to have been in the factory, which normally employs about 110, when the fire started. Most of the day shift already had left.

Witnesses said there was a small explosion followed by dense smoke about five minutes before the main blast. Most of the employees fled during that interval.

$14 Million Expansion For Phone Co.

Plans for a $14 million communications expansion and improvement program for the Mid-Hudson region in 1968—largest in the region's history—were announced today by New York Telephone.

In the Kingston area alone, the company expects to spend more than $3.5 million—up $1.4 million from 1967, according to company manager William J. Pearson.

The 1968 program includes major cable projects in preparation for the company's plan to expand many toll-free calling areas in this region by late 1969. It also includes outlays to replace some existing facilities as well as for work in area central offices.

"Continuing heavy investments and technological improvements will be required in future years to keep pace with an expanding populace seeking ever-improving telephone service," Pearson said.

54,000 Phones

The expansion of communications services is illustrated by the addition of more than 2,000 new phones in 1967 in the area served by the Kingston business office—boosting to over 54,000 the number of telephones in this region.

The number of local and long-distance calls on an average day rose more than 11,000 in the past year alone. Kingston area customers averaged over 145,000 calls a day compared to 134,000 in 1966.

The payroll for the 373 New York Telephone employees (up from 351 a year ago) who serve the Kingston-Saugerties area totaled over $2.3 million.

The company, the state's largest taxpayer, paid $178 million in state and local taxes in 1967. In this area alone, the payment of local taxes amounted to over $350,000.

Last year the company opened a new business office in the heart of one of the city's urban renewal sites and converted its former business office, at 449 Broadway, into a telephone employment office.

Buried Cable Projects

Pearson noted that several buried cable projects were undertaken in the area to provide new residential developments with out-of-sight service.

The increasing amount of cable being placed below ground is in accord with the company's efforts to assist in beautification projects while expanding the area's communications capacity. Upstate the company placed 4.8 million feet of cable below ground in 1967—about half of the total installed during the year.

Among the new services introduced by the company in 1967 were:

—Home Econ-O-Call, a bargain calling plan for residence customers with individual lines. This optional offering permits up to $24 worth of calls for $29, a saving of 20 per cent.

—Lower interstate long distance rates, featuring a "midnight to 7 A. M." dial rate of 75 cents for a call across the country.

—Apartment house service, which lets a person open the front door by pressing a button on his telephone. Handicapped people find this service especially valuable.

—The Triline phone, a sleek model with the dial built into the handset. The Triline set has been recognized for design excellence by New York's Museum of Modern Art.

In 1968, Pearson said, the company plans to offer additional new features.

Among them will be a new Data-Speed page printer that can operate 12 times faster than the speediest conventional teletypewriter, printing up to 1,200 words a minute. It forms individual characters from electronically controlled jets of ink. Unveiled recently by Teletype Corporation (subsidiary of Western Electric, the Bell System's manufacturing arm), the receive-only printer is expected to be available in limited quantities later this year.

Factory Explosion

By D. M. KREISHER

CHICAGO (AP) — Fire and a series of explosions ripped a sausage factory Wednesday killing six persons and injuring 78.

Two persons were reported missing and were feared buried in the rubble. They are Roy R. Laidly, 61, company president, and an unidentified woman employee.

Three of the dead and 18 of the injured were firemen who were fighting the blaze when the main explosion shattered the building. A policeman said the blast hurled bodies of firemen and workers across a street. "People were running, falling, screaming everywhere," said Frank Shear, 52, general manager of the plant. "You could see bodies going up in the air."

A bystander, Charles Peppers, 23, said he saw a boy, about 10, with a badly cut face run out of a damaged house across the street from the factory.

Envoy on Mideast War:

Blames Timidity of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The veteran American diplomat who was deputy chief of mission in Cairo when the Israeli-Arab war erupted last June says political timidity in Washington kept the United States from taking steps that might have prevented the war.

He is David G. Nes, whose resignation from the U.S. Foreign Service was revealed Monday. Nes, who had 26 years with the service, said he resigned because he became convinced that the State Department had barred him from any meaningful assignment.

Washington Warned
In an interview at his Washington home, Nes contended that deterioration of U.S.-Egyptian relations figures in President Gamal Abdel Nasser's decision to close the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping—a decision which ultimately led to the war. "We warned Washington from Cairo that Nasser felt he was being pushed into a corner," Nes said, "and we predicted that he would lash out. We recommended some kind of gesture from Washington which would assure Nasser that we were not hostile, but this recommendation was ignored."

"Nobody in Washington was willing to take the political risk involved in doing anything for Egypt. Nobody wanted to be accused of helping Nasser. This was true at all levels—the State Department, the Congress and the White House."

Nes, along with 576 other Americans, was expelled from Egypt last June after the Egyptians accused the United States of participating in the war on Israel's side—a charge the United States denied.

Immediately after his expulsion, Nes charged the State Department had refused to heed warnings from its Cairo embassy on the gravity of the Middle East situation.

The State Department denied this accusation. Later, at a news conference, President Johnson said Nes' views were "parochial."

Nes told this reporter he is convinced Nasser's decisions to expel United Nations troops from the Gaza Strip, to dispatch 80,000 Egyptian soldiers to the Sinai Desert on Israel's borders, and to deprive Israel from access to the Gulf of Aqaba, all were based on Syrian and Soviet intelligence reports.

"These reports," Nes said, "warned of Israeli troop build-ups on the Syrian frontier. We advised the Egyptian Foreign Ministry that on the basis of our own intelligence there was no truth to these reports. But Egyptian distrust of American credibility was at such a point then that the Egyptians refused to believe us and were convinced we were covering up for Israel."

"If we had been able to demonstrate to Nasser that we were not hostile to him, I believe we might have been able to dissuade him from the actions which led to war and we might have been able to prevent the conflict."

Nes said Nasser's distrust of the United States developed from a series of incidents over the 11 months preceding the outbreak of war. He singled out delay in processing an Egyptian request for $155 million in food aid, made in February 1966, as a major factor.

Inept Handling

"Our handling of this situation between February 1966 and late January 1967 was particularly inept," Nes said. "We kept telling the Egyptians we had their food aid request 'under consideration.'"

"You can give an answer like that for three months or so, but not for eleven."

He said the United States kept offering "funny little excuses—the President is in Texas, or Congress is not in session—which did not ring true."

In January 1967, Nasser withdrew the request for food and accused the United States of embarking on a "war of starvation" against the United Arab Republic.

Foreign Aid Pitch Facing Another Stormy Session

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asks Congress today for $3.04 billion in foreign aid for the coming fiscal year amid signs of another rough round on Capitol Hill for the overseas assistance program.

The President's program for $2.5 billion for economic assistance and $540 million for military aid abroad during the fiscal year starting July 1, to be sent to Congress in a special message, is about $750 million above what the legislators were willing to grant him last year.

About Billion Chopped

Congress chopped nearly $1 billion out of Johnson's $3.2 billion aid budget for the current fiscal year.

Some congressmen who saw Johnson's aid figures in his budget message last month have already said they intend to cut again. Rising federal spending, the dollar drain, criticism of the administration's Vietnam policy and demands for more outlays for social welfare at home have added to pressure for reducing the overseas program.

In offering his budget, Johnson said foreign aid is essential to U.S. efforts to promote world peace, both through raising living standards in less-developed areas and through contributing to the defenses of non-Communist nations.

The $3.04 billion for the aid-administering Agency for International Development and global arms assistance is a large portion but by no means all of the U.S. assistance extended abroad.

Up $3.98 Billion

AID chief William S. Gaud calculated total U.S. economic aid programs for fiscal 1969 at $4.23 billion, up from $3.98 billion this year, including along with his agency's outlays those under the Food for Freedom program, contributions to international banks and spending for Peace Corps volunteers.

The $540 million military aid outlay does not include undisclosed amounts for Vietnam, Laos and Thailand, which are included in the regular U.S. defense budget.

Viet Hero Still A Wanted Man

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Melvin Murrel, the "Black Sergeant of Troy" who had a $6,300 price put on his head by the Viet Cong, is back home—still a wanted man.

This time, by private, civic and service organizations that have besieged the Marine hero with requests to speak to them of his experiences in Vietnam.

"It has kept me pretty busy and I still am a little up in the air about the future," says the tall Negro who was discharged last month after two tours of duty in the Southeast Asian country.

Murrel, who less than two months ago faced a daily diet of combat, terror, hardship and little sleep, has found his early days as a civilian safer but just as hectic.

Since his discharge, he has married his high school sweetheart, corresponded with Marines and Vietnamese villagers, the State Department, colleges and spoken to numerous gatherings.

"I just haven't had time to sort it all out," he said. "I have thought of going back in some civilian capacity, possibly with the U.S. AID mission, but my immediate plans are for college. I'd like to get a political science degree. Then I could be of more help."

At meetings, the man known to the enemy as "Tung-si den" (The Black Sergeant) or "Tung-si Mel" (Sergeant Mel) stresses the need for American involvement "to halt communism."

"The South Vietnamese need a boost, and the Americans are the people to give it to them," he says.

"If we sell out the Vietnamese, the United States will lose all it has gained in Asia, in the Philippines, in Japan, in Laos, everywhere, because the Asians will know that the United States is only a paper tiger."

Murrel, 21, is the youngest of six children of Mrs. Eulia M. Smith and the late Sydney Smith of Syracuse. Born Melvin Murrel Smith, he said he legally changed his name "for no special reason" when he enlisted in 1964 following graduation from Nottingham High School.

The twice-wounded Leatherneck said he volunteered to go back to Vietnam for a second tour in January 1967 because

"there was a lot more to be done and I also wanted to find out a little bit more why America was there."

As leader of a combined action platoon in the village of Tuy Loan, a few miles south of the big Marine base at Da Nang, Murrel quickly gained the confidence of the villagers and became a thorn in the side of the enemy.

"One day the village kids started bringing in wanted leaflets the VC had scattered in the jungle," he recalled. "At first, it was only for $42.50 but as time went along and we hurt them more it kept going up until it got to $6,300 just before I came home."

"It scares you a little at first, but I knew I had to operate normally because if the villagers saw you were afraid, you would lose their respect," he said.

While rewards for village leaders and American personnel are not uncommon, the amount on Murrel was considered extremely high.

Back home, Murrel maintains that pacification programs similar to the one at Tuy Loan are the real keys to victory in Vietnam. "Although, of course, the field action is necessary too."

As for being a Negro, Murrel said "You know, that was never discussed in our platoon. We just hung together in a dangerous situation and there was no prejudice."

He said he disagreed with anti-war demonstrators but said that they had a right to their views and that reports of their activities had never hurt morale in Vietnam.

"That's one of the reasons I was fighting, to protect their freedom to demonstrate."

Teeners Seized With Marijuana

Stopped on the State Thruway, north of Kingston at 2:30 p. m.

Wednesday for a speeding violation, three upstate teenagers were later charged with possession of a dangerous drug—marijuana.

The youths were booked as Arthur D. Daniels, 19, of 49 Tuxedo Park; Stephen J. DeRube, 19, of 322 Kossuth Street; and Michael D. Finley, 17, of 409 North Madison Street, all of Rome.

Arraigned before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly, the accused youths were permitted to plead guilty to a misdemeanor involving possession of dangerous drugs. They were each fined $100 and in lieu of payment of the fines they were committed to the county jail to serve out the fine at the rate of one dollar a day.

Nes said Nasser's distrust of the United States developed from a series of incidents over the 11 months preceding the outbreak of war. He singled out delay in processing an Egyptian request for $155 million in food aid, made in February 1966, as a major factor.

Inept Handling

"Our handling of this situation between February 1966 and late January 1967 was particularly inept," Nes said. "We kept telling the Egyptians we had their food aid request 'under consideration.'"

"You can give an answer like that for three months or so, but not for eleven."

He said the United States kept offering "funny little excuses—the President is in Texas, or Congress is not in session—which did not ring true."

In January 1967, Nasser withdrew the request for food and accused the United States of embarking on a "war of starvation" against the United Arab Republic.

Jury Is Completed For Shooting Case

The selection of a jury consisting of seven men and five women was completed Wednesday in the case of Donald A. Dunn, 34, of Newburgh, charged with attempted murder in the first degree, and opening statements started the trial today in county court before Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Assistant District Attorney Philip W. Schunk will present the people's case. Hubert A. Richter, assigned counsel will represent the defendant.

Dunn is charged in an indictment with attempted murder in the first degree; assault, second degree, two counts, and conspiracy as a felony.

The case evolves around a shooting incident in the Town of Plattekill on March 31, last year. State police authorities reported Elmer Strickland, 48, father of seven and husband of Lorraine, 38, was hit by shotgun blasts as he entered the front door of his southern Ulster County home shortly before 9 p. m. on the night in question.

Police said the first blast apparently hit Strickland in the right arm and in the stomach and bicep. Strickland turned to flee, according to the troopers and another blast from the 12-gauge shotgun hit him in the back. Strickland was in serious condition for some weeks in the hospital but finally recovered.

Sixteen hours after the shooting state police brought Mrs. Strickland and Dunn into custody. Both were held at the time in lieu of $50,000 bail each. They were arraigned before Town of Kingston Justice Robert A. Ferrigan and both entered pleas of innocent.

Ulster Dog Hearing

There will be an open citizens' meeting for the Town of Ulster today at 8 p. m. at the Grange Hall in the Town of Ulster to generally discuss the unleashed dogs and the resultant problems.

Foreign Aid Pitch Facing Another Stormy Session

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asks Congress today for the coming fiscal year aid for the coming fiscal year amid signs of another rough round on Capitol Hill for the overseas assistance program.

The President's program for $2.5 billion for economic assistance and $540 million for military aid abroad during the fiscal year starting July 1, to be sent to Congress in a special message, is about $750 million above what the legislators were willing to grant him last year.

About Billion Chopped

Congress chopped nearly $1 billion out of Johnson's $3.2 billion aid budget for the current fiscal year.

Some congressmen who saw Johnson's aid figures in his budget message last month have already said they intend to cut again, raising federal spending, the dollar drain, criticism of the administration's Vietnam policy and demands for more outlays for social welfare at home have added to pressure for reducing the overseas program.

In offering his budget, Johnson said foreign aid is essential to U.S. efforts to promote world peace, both through raising living standards in less-developed areas and through contributing to the defenses of non-Communist nations.

The $3.04 billion for the aid-

administering Agency for International Development and global arms assistance is a large portion but by no means all of the U.S. assistance extended abroad.

Up $3.98 Billion

AID chief William S. Gaud calculated total U.S. economic aid programs for fiscal 1969 at $4.23 billion, up from $3.98 billion this year, including along with his agency's outlays those under the Food for Freedom program, contributions to international banks and spending for Peace Corps volunteers.

The $540 million military aid outlay does not include undisclosed amounts for Vietnam, Laos and Thailand, which are included in the regular U.S. defense budget.

Viet Hero Still A Wanted Man

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Melvin Murrel, the "Black Sergeant of Tuy Loan" who had a $6,300 price put on his head by the Viet Cong, is back home—still a wanted man.

This time, by private, civic and service organizations that have besieged the Marine hero with requests to speak to them of his experiences in Vietnam.

"It has kept me pretty busy and I still am a little up in the air about the future," says the tall Negro who was discharged last month after two tours of duty in the Southeast Asian country.

Murrel, who less than two months ago faced a daily diet of combat, terror, hardship and little sleep, has found his early days as a civilian safer but just as hectic.

Since his discharge, he has married his high school sweetheart, corresponded with Marines and Vietnamese villagers, the State Department, colleges and spoken to numerous gatherings.

"I just haven't had time to sort it all out," he said. "I have thought of going back in some civilian capacity, possibly with the U.S. AID mission, but my immediate plans are for college. I'd like to get a political science degree. Then I could be of more help."

At meetings, the man known to the enemy as "Tung-si den" (The Black Sergeant) or "Tung-si Mel" (Sergeant Mel) stresses the need for American involvement "to halt communism."

"The South Vietnamese need a boost, and the Americans are the people to give it to them," he says.

"If we sell out the Vietnamese, the United States will lose all it has gained in Asia, in the Philippines, in Japan, in Laos, everywhere, because the Asians will know that the United States is only a paper tiger."

Murrel, 21, is the youngest of six children of Mrs. Eulia Mai Smith and the late Sydney Smith of Syracuse. Born Melvin Murrel Smith, he said he legally changed his name "for no special reason" when he enlisted in 1964 following graduation from Nottingham High School.

The twice-wounded Leatherneck said he volunteered to go back to Vietnam for a second tour in January 1967 because

"there was a lot more to be done and I also wanted to find out a little bit more why America was there."

As leader of a combined action platoon in the village of Tuy Loan, a few miles south of the big Marine base at Da Nang, Murrel quickly gained the confidence of the villagers and became a thorn in the side of the enemy.

"One day the village kids started bringing in wanted leaflets the VC had scattered in the jungle," he recalled. "At first, it was only for $42.50 but as time went along and we hurt them more it kept going up until it got to $6,300 just before I came home." "It scares you a little at first, but I knew I had to operate normally because if the villagers saw you were afraid, you would lose their respect," he said.

While rewards for village leaders and American personnel are not uncommon, the amount on Murrel was considered extremely high.

Back home, Murrel maintains that pacification programs similar to the one at Tuy Loan are the real keys to victory in Vietnam "although, of course, the field action is necessary too."

As for being a Negro, Murrel said "You know, that was never discussed in our platoon. We just hung together in a dangerous situation and there was no prejudice."

He said he disagreed with anti-war demonstrators but said that they had a right to their views and that reports of their activities had never hurt morale in Vietnam.

"That's one of the reasons I was fighting, to protect their freedom to demonstrate."

Teeners Seized With Marijuana

Stopped on the State Thruway north of Kingston at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday for a speeding violation, three upstate teenagers were later charged with possession of a dangerous drug—marijuana.

The youths were booked as Arthur D. Daniels, 19, of 49 Tuxedo Park; Stephen J. De-Ruby, 19, of 322 Kossuth Street and Michael D. Finley, 17, of 409 North Madison Street, all of Rome.

Arraigned before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly, the accused youths were permitted to plead guilty to a misdemeanor involving possession of dangerous drugs. They were each fined $100 and in lieu of payment of the fines they were committed to the county jail to serve out the fine at the rate of one dollar a day.

Saigon Must Be Told

Commenting on the big offensive last week, Senator Kennedy declared the Viet Cong scored an outstanding political victory and that the United States should tell Saigon that we can't continue to help unless South Vietnam does more for itself.

The Senator also has called for a "confrontation" between our government and the government of South Vietnam "on the entire question of corruption, inefficiency, waste of American resources, and the future of the other war."

Two separate items from Saigon show exactly what he is talking about.

They concern an incorruptible general and two corrupt lieutenant colonels. The general reportedly quit. The lieutenant colonels received desirable positions.

Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang is the head of South Vietnam's pacification program, the second highest man in the Vietnamese military hierarchy.

He has reportedly submitted his resignation because of a lack of reform spirit in the government.

The lieutenant colonels are Le Duc Dat and Ho Nhat Quan. Both were dismissed from government positions last fall on corruption charges. Both were supposed to be "severely punished."

It has now been revealed that Col. Dat has been made assistant commander of the 18th South Vietnamese Army Division; Col. Quan, commander of artillery forces in the III Corps area.

An American commented that five words best describe the promotion policies of the South Vietnamese Army: "foul up and go up."

General Thang has often said that the only hope of defeating communism in Vietnam is to offer the peasants a better future than that offered by the Communists.

Senator Kennedy, speaking before either of these incidents was reported, said:

"I believe the people we are fighting for do not fully have their hearts in the struggle, and I believe as well that the government that rules them does not have its heart in the cause of the people."

These are not pleasant charges for our nation, which is losing 9,000 lives and spending $30 billion a year in Vietnam. But they should be faced.

Inflation to Continue

Elsewhere on this page, Columnist Sterling F. Green points out that people who looked for a novel or dramatic anti-inflation plan in President Johnson's economic message to Congress were disappointed. He proposed nothing so definite as a revision and revitalization of wage-price guideposts.

Johnson rejected ideas for formal intervention machinery to reduce the wage-price spiral. Instead, he again appealed for voluntary curbs, an appeal which failed to stem increases last year as they are bound to do this year.

The fact is, he acknowledged in his message, that a classic wage-price spiral has been set awl. And it cannot be halted in 1968, regardless of higher taxes or anyone's private sacrifices.

So the American consumer may as well buckle down to the hard fact that there is nothing being done to prevent inflation from eroding his buying power.

The President speaks of an emergency but will not declare one officially. He wants stabilization but he will not decree stabilization measures. He has only set up a new Cabinet committee on price stability, to be headed by the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. The committee will study in depth industries which are a persistent source of inflationary measure, such as medicine and construction; study Government practices which affect prices, such as "bunched" orders for a commodity in a short period of time; and work with industry and labor in an effort to reach some consensus on appropriate general standards to guide private price and wage decisions.

These are half measures which have failed to work. They are concessions to the fact that this is an election year and nothing must be considered—such as wage and price controls—which might affect the outcome.

Champion of Laxity

It would be hard to match, in the height of the ridiculous, the proposal of Senator Russell Long to have absentee voting by members of Congress who are not present when a bill is due to pass. The Louisiana solon would have them phone in their vote. This would remove any obligation that a lawmaker has to attend debates and sessions on measures, and his vote, as a result, could be based on little if any knowledge of what the particular measure is all about. Senator Long seems to be setting himself up as the champion of Congressional laxity, since it was he who for endless hours on the Senate floor defended Senator Thomas Dodd before the latter was censured by his associates.

"Bear in Mind, I'm Not a Candidate!"

Government Isn't Doing Anything About Inflation

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's the government going to do about inflation? Not very much, it appears.

People who looked for a novel or dramatic anti-inflation plan in President Johnson's Economic message to Congress last week were disappointed. He came up with a plan for a committee—and with a renewed plea for the 10 per cent surtax which the House Ways and Means Committee has shelved three times.

Some expected Johnson to propose a revision and revitalization of wage-price guideposts. Others looked for a plan to set up an advisory board to give guidance on pending major wage and price decisions.

Nothing so definite was suggested, although the new five-member Cabinet Committee on Price Stability apparently will try to find a substitute for the virtually defunct guideposts.

Meantime, said Johnson, unions and industry should refrain voluntarily from "excessive wage settlements or unnecessary price hikes."

But how can a union negotiator be expected to settle for anything less than he can wrest from an employer, when he knows the 1968's inflation will eat away three, four, or possibly five per cent of his unionists' paychecks?

And why should a businessman—unless he has fat profits in sight—be expected to reprint last year's prices in his 1968 catalog when he gave a 5.5 per cent wage increase in 1967 and faces another one, perhaps just as big, in 1968?

Cannot Be Halted
The fact is, as Johnson's message acknowledged, that a classic wage-price spiral has been set awl. And that it cannot be halted in 1968, regardless of higher taxes or anyone's private sacrifices.

It could be slowed by prompt enactment of the surtax, the President told Congress. And if there is also labor-management restraint, reasonable stability may return by 1969 or 1970.

But with business activity heating up "and with labor unions building the expectation of further price rises in their wage demands, there is danger the spiral will accelerate," Johnson said. "The longer it runs the harder it is to stop."

Some congressional critics complain he is trying to stop the runaway with a rubber sword.

The Cabinet committee is under orders not to get into any "specific current wage and price matters," but to foster restraint and cooperation among industry, labor and the government, and to undertake these two further assignments:

—To seek out causes of inflation in "problem industries," and then to propose specific remedies—private, governmental or both.

—To confer with representatives of business, labor and the public "to attempt to reach some consensus on appropriate general standards to guide private price and wage decisions."

Long-Term Undertaking
But the task of finding and eliminating inflationary hot spots industry-by-industry, is a long-term undertaking. Some officials say it may help prevent the next inflation but won't help much in cooling this one.

And the quest for a "consensus" on workable and acceptable noninflationary guideposts has been under way—by economists, high officials, foundations, industrial relations experts and the President's advisory committee on labor-management policy—for two years or more. The goal hasn't been sighted.

The American consumer may as well buckle down to the hard fact: There's nothing in sight to prevent inflation from eroding his buying power throughout 1968, probably through 1969, and possibly longer.

Drew Pearson Says

LBJ Reveals Pueblo Capture Was Severe Security Blow

WASHINGTON — President Johnson called a group of Congressmen to the White House recently for a secret briefing on the seizure of the USS Pueblo off the North Korean coast. Invited were Democratic members of the House and Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House and Senate Armed Services Committees.

The President presented Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, the latter's successor, Clark Clifford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Earle Wheeler, and Gen. Maxwell Taylor. Strangely, no Navy man spoke at the briefing though the seizure of the Pueblo obviously involved naval problems.

The President revealed that the loss of the Pueblo had dealt U.S. security a severely damaging blow, "since the ship had the most sophisticated and modern intelligence mechanism on board. The equipment was 15 years ahead of anything Soviet Russia possesses."

"Now that the Russians have the model," the President remarked grimly, "they may be able to catch up with us within a year."

"I've got all my top people here," he told the Senators and Congressmen. "We want your questions, but it will be more orderly if you ask the questions after you've heard the briefings. If anyone feels compelled to interrupt with a question which makes a contribution, okay."

The briefings went smoothly until Gen. Wheeler got up to explain why Air Force planes in Japan did not go to the Pueblo's rescue.

Dodd Gets the Hook
"Why didn't you have some protection for the ship?" Dodd asked. Wheeler explained that the presence of a destroyer would have revealed to the North Koreans what the vessel was and ruined its mission.

Dodd continued peppering the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff about air cover, failure to send rescue planes, and so on. He was quite belligerent.

The President, who was sitting on the other side of the room, craned his neck to see who was talking. He couldn't see and asked someone who it was. By this time it was obvious that Dodd had lifted a couple of drinks before the briefing. The President moved in firmly.

"That's enough," he said. "We have to proceed." "I thought you said we could ask questions if they were important," remonstrated Dodd.

"I said if they made a contribution, and yours are not making a contribution. We'll stay here as long as you want to ask the questions—but later," the President said. Dodd subsided.

Gen. Wheeler then went on to explain that it was impossible to have planes constantly hovering over the Pueblo since that would ruin its mission; also that the Air Force commander in Japan decided there wasn't much he could do because his planes could not stay in the air very long and there were 75 MIGs stationed at Wonsan which the Pueblo was also surrounded by small ships that would sink it, Wheeler said, or if the commander sank his own ship, it would have taken two or three hours for the vessel to settle in the water and the enemy could have boarded it during that period.

Sensitive Mission
The Congressmen and Senators were informed that the Pueblo was on a highly delicate mission to ascertain whether North Korea planned to launch a second front.

Premier Kim had been talking publicly about a diversionary effort to weaken American strength in South Vietnam and it was suspected Kim might be planning an attack across the 38th parallel. The Pueblo was hovering off the coast to pick up any messages regarding such an attack.

Twenty-seven men in the Pueblo's crew, incidentally, were the most highly trained and skilled experts in the cryptographic and intelligence fields.

The briefing went smoothly after Dodd subsided. President Johnson explained that the United States had a number of alternatives to secure the return of the crew and ship if diplomacy did not work. One would be to destroy the ship, though he quickly added that this would preclude the chance of getting it back. He also talked of strengthening the entire American operation in South Korea to prepare for any showdown.

Several of the Congressmen pressed the President. They felt that he was surrounded by what they called "medicocracies."

Rivers's Real Enemy

During the briefing, pictures were shown of Russian vessels also equipped with electronic listening devices stationed off San Francisco, Guam, Catalina Island and the East Coast.

Rep. Mendel Rivers, the silver-haired solon from South Carolina, was discussing a certain newspaperman in the House Democratic cloakroom recently.

"I never had any trouble with Drew Pearson till I became chairman of the Armed Services Committee," said Rivers. "Even then I didn't have any real trouble with him until I ran afoul of McNamara."

"Now, whenever I tangle with Secretary McNamara, two days later I get a blast from Pearson. It's Secretary McNamara," concluded Rivers, "who's putting him up to these articles criticizing me."

Do-It-Yourself Lobby

Venezuela adopted a new approach on increasing its sugar quota the other day. It dispensed with lobbyists. When Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N.C., was chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, the custom was to hire a lobbyist friendly to Cooley's which pretty sure to get your sugar quota increased. When Venezuela hired lobbyist Charles Patrick Clark as its lobbyist, on Cooley's recommendation, Cooley promptly increased Venezuela's quota.

In the long run, however, this contributed to Cooley's defeat. He is no longer in Congress and Rep. Bob Poage of Texas now heads the House Agriculture Committee.

The other day a group of Venezuelans, chiefly members of the Venezuelan congress, came to Washington once again to increase their sugar quotas. They took the direct approach by calling on another Congressman—Poage. At first the Congressman from Texas was not sympathetic. Venezuela was asking a temporary quota increase of 75,000 tons for one year. It now has a quota of only 24,000 tons but a surplus of 100,000 tons.

"What reason can I give Congress for increasing Venezuela's sugar quota over that of other countries?" Rep. Poage asked.

Fabio Gonzales, representative of the Small Farmers Union, replied that Venezuela had put across an agrarian reform, had divided the land from the big estates and allocated it to small farmers, as urged by the United States under the Alliance for Progress.

"We have gone ahead with this plan, and it has been very successful," Fabio said. "I myself have now received an allotment of land. And we have followed your advice in diversifying our production. Hitherto our economy depended almost entirely on oil. But when you have a lot of little landowners, they are anxious to produce, so we have a surplus of sugar."

"This division of the land and this production has kept people away from the guerrillas. We do not have guerrilla insurrections as in some other countries."

Rep. Poage replied that every Latin American country which wanted to increase its sugar quota had used the argument of the danger of guerrillas.

Best U. S. Customer

Ambassador Enrique Tejera-Paris, who accompanied the Venezuelan delegation, pointed out that Venezuela was the biggest purchaser of U. S. agricultural products in the Western Hemisphere. He mentioned wheat—a big item in Poage's home state—and pointed out that Venezuela had decreased the tax on U. S. wheat in order to help the American balance of payments. He emphasized the excellent relations between Venezuela and the United States, and Venezuela's immediate repayment of all loans to the United States.

"Australia is the biggest purchaser of our farm products," refuted Poage. "And in addition Australia is helping the United States in Vietnam. Venezuela is not."

"We came here not to sell a policy," replied Ambassador Tejera-Paris. "We came here to sell a product."

However, the Congressman from Texas appeared impressed by the fact that other congressmen from Venezuela should come to see him instead of employing a lobbyist. The delegation included—in addition to Ambassador Tejera-Paris and Fabio Gonzalez—Jesus Paredes, Marcial Mendoza Estrella, Rodriguez Cabrices, Vicente Oropeza, and Dr. Cohenares Peraza, president of the Venezuelan Distribution of Sugar. All of the congressmen, incidentally, are in opposition to the Venezuelan administration.

The Venezuelans also called on Sen. Joseph Montoya of New Mexico and on Vice President Hubert Humphrey, both more sympathetic than Rep. Poage. They promised to do everything they could to help.

Actually an increase in the Venezuelan sugar quota does not depend on Congress. It can be increased by executive decree, regardless of Congress. President Johnson, after the Dominican revolution, increased that country's sugar quota in order to benefit the Dominican economy.

Model Cities Program Cause Problems in Some Communities

By JAMES K. BATTEN
(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — In Winoski, Vt., on an icy January night when the mercury skidded to 26 degrees below zero, more than 225 residents of a tumbledown waterfront slum turned out for the Model Cities election.

In Atlanta on a Sunday night in December, about 500 poor people, led by a bakery foreman named Deacon Lewis Peters, demanded five more seats on Atlanta's Model Cities executive board. They got them.

In Rochester, N. Y., the organization of Negro militants, FIGHT (Freedom, Independence, God, Honor, Today) is warning that "there will be no Model Cities program in Rochester" unless poor blacks are fully represented.

In these and many other of the nation's first 63 "Model Cities," last November's election at winning a spot in the program has given way to deep concern about a new question:

What role will the 4,000,000 people living in the Model Cities neighborhoods get in planning the program?

Just after selecting them last Nov. 16, the Department of Housing and Urban Development took each of the 63 cities to take a clear look at the need for involving neighborhood people.

HUD's directive was intentionally vague. It offered no formulas, no minimum quotas. It merely said that the residents must be given a meaningful voice in the program.

That directive set off little political explosions in many of the 63 cities that received it. And in at least a score of communities, the tugging and hauling is still going on.

In some places, like Winoski, the moves to give more representation to the poor came from the local political establishment itself or from the local Model Cities staff.

In Huntsville, Ala., according to one close observer, the attitude at city hall was, "Let's not make HUD mad. We don't want to make any waves at all."

In Winoski, a predominantly French Catholic town of 8,000 people on the shores of Lake Champlain, the original plan was for a 35-member policy-making board. The poor were not to be represented.

But armed with HUD's directive, local officials decided to create 12 more seats on the board and give them all to low-income residents of what Winoski calls "the waterfront" and "the flats."

The Sunday night before the town-meeting-style election, a fire engine, siren blaring, rolled through the Model-Cities neighborhoods. A hundred yards behind was a police car with a loudspeaker, urging people to turn out and vote.

In Atlanta, the original proposal gave neighborhood residents only one seat on a nine-member board. The other eight were to be appointed by Mayor Ivan Allen.

But residents of the six neighborhoods involved—four mostly Negro, two white or predominantly white—were not satisfied. They pressed their point and won, with surprisingly little resistance from city hall.

Now they have six out of 14 seats, instead of one out of nine. "The citizens are participating here," said one city hall regular in Atlanta. "The city is allowing them to, to a very remarkable degree."

Elsewhere, the demands of HUD's directive have not been so easily met. In some cases, the struggle between the militant poor and city hall has been rancorous and bitter.

In Rochester, a neighborhood council, composed of 15 residents and 14 public officials, has been planned. But a battle is raging over the council's powers in overseeing the Model Cities program.

The local anti-poverty staff director and others have demanded that the neighborhood council be given veto power over city council actions affecting the Model-Cities program.

"Civic participation is a pretty sensitive issue here," conceded one Rochester political observer. "It could be dangerous once the neighborhood council is formed. The first time the city council overrides them, it could blow into something."

Saigon Must Be Told

Commenting on the big offensive last week, Senator Kennedy declared the Viet Cong scored an outstanding political victory and that the United States should tell Saigon that we can't continue to help unless South Vietnam does more for itself.

The Senator also has called for a "confrontation" between our government and the government of South Vietnam "on the entire question of corruption, inefficiency, waste of American resources, and the future of the other war."

Two separate items from Saigon show exactly what he is talking about.

They concern an incorruptible general and two corrupt lieutenant colonels. The general reportedly quit. The lieutenant colonels received desirable positions.

Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang is the head of South Vietnam's pacification program, the second highest man in the Vietnamese military hierarchy.

He has reportedly submitted his resignation because of a lack of reform spirit in the government.

The lieutenant colonels are Le Duc Dat and Ho Nhat Quan. Both were dismissed from government positions last fall on corruption charges. Both were supposed to be "severely punished."

It has now been revealed that Col. Dat has been made assistant commander of the 18th South Vietnamese Army Division; Col. Quan, commander of artillery forces in the III Corps area.

An American commented that five words best describe the promotion policies of the South Vietnamese Army: "foul up and go up."

General Thang has often said that the only hope of defeating communism in Vietnam is to offer the peasants a better future than that offered by the Communists.

Senator Kennedy, speaking before either of these incidents was reported, said:

"I believe the people we are fighting for do not fully have their hearts in the struggle, and I believe as well that the government that rules them does not have its heart in the cause of the people."

These are not pleasant charges for our nation, which is losing 9,000 lives and spending $30 billion a year in Vietnam. But they should be faced.

Inflation to Continue

Elsewhere on this page, Columnist Sterling F. Green points out that people who looked for a novel or dramatic anti-inflation plan in President Johnson's economic message to Congress were disappointed. He proposed nothing so definite as a revision and revitalization of wage-price guideposts.

Johnson rejected ideas for formal intervention machinery to reduce the wage-price spiral. Instead, he again appealed for voluntary curbs, an appeal which failed to stem increases last year as they are bound to do this year.

The fact is, he acknowledged in his message, that a classic wage-price spiral has been set awl. And it cannot be halted in 1968, regardless of higher taxes or anyone's private sacrifices.

So the American consumer may as well buckle down to the hard fact that there is nothing being done to prevent inflation from eroding his buying power.

The President speaks of an emergency but will not declare one officially. He wants stabilization but he will not decree stabilization measures. He has only set up a new Cabinet committee on price stability, to be headed by the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. The committee will study in depth industries which are a persistent source of inflationary measure, such as medicine and construction; study Government practices which affect prices, such as "bunched" orders for a commodity in a short period of time; and work with industry and labor in an effort to reach some consensus on appropriate general standards to guide private price and wage decisions.

These are half measures which have failed to work. They are concessions to the fact that this is an election year and nothing must be considered—such as wage and price controls—which might affect the outcome.

Champion of Laxity

It would be hard to match, in the height of the ridiculous, the proposal of Senator Russell Long to have absentee voting by members of Congress who are not present when a bill is due to pass. The Louisiana solon would have them phone in their vote. This would remove any obligation that a lawmaker has to attend debates and sessions on measures, and his vote, as a result, could be based on little if any knowledge of what the particular measure is all about. Senator Long seems to be setting himself up as the champion of Congressional laxity, since it was he who for endless hours on the Senate floor defended Senator Thomas Dodd before the latter was censured by his associates.

"Bear in Mind, I'm Not a Candidate!"

Government Isn't Doing Anything About Inflation

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's the government going to do about inflation? Not very much, it appears.

People who looked for a novel or dramatic anti-inflation plan in President Johnson's Economic message to Congress last week were disappointed. He came up with a plan for a committee—and with a renewed plea for the 10 per cent surtax which the House Ways and Means Committee has shelved three times.

Some expected Johnson to propose a revision and revitalization of wage-price guideposts. Others looked for a plan to set up an advisory board to give guidance on pending major wage and price decisions.

Nothing so definite was suggested, although the new five-member Cabinet Committee on Price Stability apparently will try to find a substitute for the virtually defunct guideposts.

Meantime, said Johnson, unions and industry should refrain voluntarily from "excessive wage settlements or unnecessary price hikes."

But how can a union negotiator be expected to settle for anything less than he can wrest from an employer, when he knows the 1968's inflation will eat away three, four, or possibly five per cent of his unionists' paychecks?

And why should a businessman—unless he has fat profits in sight—be expected to reprint last year's prices in his 1968 catalog when he gave a 5.5 per cent wage increase in 1967 and faces another one, perhaps just as big, in 1968?

Cannot Be Halted

The fact is, as Johnson's message acknowledged, that a classic wage-price spiral has been set awl. And that it cannot be halted in 1968, regardless of higher taxes or anyone's private sacrifices.

It could be slowed by prompt enactment of the surtax, the President told Congress. And if there is also labor-management restraint, reasonable stability may return by 1969 or 1970.

But with business activity heating up "and with labor unions building the expectation of further price rises in their wage demands, there is danger the spiral will accelerate," Johnson said. "The longer it runs the harder it is to stop."

Some congressional critics complain he is trying to stop the runaway with a rubber sword.

The Cabinet committee is under orders not to get into any "specific current wage and price matters," but to foster restraint and cooperation among industry, labor and the government, and to undertake these two further assignments:

—To seek out causes of inflation in "problem industries," and then to propose specific remedies—private, governmental or both.

—To confer with representatives of business, labor and the public "to attempt to reach some consensus on appropriate general standards to guide private price and wage decisions."

Long-Term Undertaking
But the task of finding and eliminating inflationary hot spots industry-by-industry, is a long-term undertaking. Some officials say it may help prevent the next inflation but won't help much in cooling this one.

And the quest for a "consensus" on workable and acceptable noninflationary guideposts has been under way—by economists, high officials, foundations, industrial relations experts and the President's advisory committee on labor-management policy—for two years or more. The goal hasn't been sighted.

The American consumer may as well buckle down to the hard fact: There's nothing in sight to prevent inflation from eroding his buying power throughout 1968, probably through 1969, and possibly longer.

LBJ Reveals Pueblo Capture Was Severe Security Blow

WASHINGTON — President Johnson called a group of Congressmen to the White House recently for a secret briefing on the seizure of the USS Pueblo off the North Korean coast. Invited were Democratic members of the House and Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House and Senate Armed Services Committees.

The President presented Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, the latter's successor, Clark Clifford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Earle Wheeler, and Gen. Maxwell Taylor. Strangely, no Navy man spoke at the briefing though the seizure of the Pueblo obviously involved naval problems.

The President revealed that the loss of the Pueblo had dealt U.S. security a severely damaging blow, "since the ship had the most sophisticated and modern intelligence mechanism on board. The equipment was 15 years ahead of anything Soviet Russia possesses."

"Now that the Russians have the model," the President remarked grimly, "they may be able to catch up with us within a year."

"I've got all my top people here," he told the Senators and Congressmen. "We want your questions, but it will be more orderly if you ask the questions after you've heard the briefings. If anyone feels compelled to interrupt with a question which makes a contribution, okay."

The briefings went smoothly until Gen. Wheeler got up to explain why Air Force planes in Japan did not go to the Pueblo's rescue.

Dodd Gets the Hook

"Why didn't you have some protection for the ship?" Dodd asked. Wheeler explained that the presence of a destroyer would have revealed to the North Koreans what the vessel was and ruined its mission.

Dodd continued peppering the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff about air cover, failure to send rescue planes, and so on. He was quite belligerent.

The President, who was sitting on the other side of the room, craned his neck to see who was talking. He couldn't see and asked someone who it was. By this time it was obvious that Dodd had lifted a couple of drinks before the briefing. The President moved in firmly.

"That's enough," he said. "We have to proceed."

"I thought you said we could ask questions if they were important," remonstrated Dodd.

"I said if they made a contribution, and yours are not making a contribution. We'll stay here as long as you want to ask the questions—but later," the President said. Dodd subsided.

Gen. Wheeler then went on to explain that it was impossible to have planes constantly hovering over the Pueblo since that would ruin its mission; also that the Air Force commander in Japan decided there wasn't much he could do because his planes could not stay in the air very long and there were 75 MIGs stationed at Wonsan which could get there quicker. The Pueblo was also surrounded by small ships that would sink it. Wheeler said, or if the commander sank his own ship, it would have taken two or three hours for the vessel to settle in the water and the enemy could have boarded it during that period.

Sensitive Mission

The Congressmen and Senators were informed that the Pueblo was on a highly delicate mission to ascertain whether North Korea planned to launch a second front.

Premier Kim had been talking publicly about a diversionary effort to weaken American strength in South Vietnam and it was suspected Kim might be planning an attack across the 38th parallel. The Pueblo was hovering off the coast to pick up any messages regarding such an attack.

Twenty-seven men in the Pueblo's crew, incidentally, were the most highly trained and skilled experts in the cryptographic and intelligence fields.

The briefing went smoothly after Dodd subsided. President Johnson said that the United States had a number of alternatives to secure the return of the crew and ship if diplomacy did not work. One would be to destroy the ship, though he quickly added that this would preclude the chance of getting it back. He also talked of strengthening the entire American operation in South Korea to prepare for any showdown.

Several of the Congressmen present expressed sympathy for the President. They felt that he was surrounded by what they called "medicocracies."

Rivers's Real Enemy

During the briefing, pictures were shown of Russian vessels also equipped with electronic listening devices stationed off San Francisco, Guam, Catalina Island and the East Coast.

Rep. Mendel Rivers, the silver-haired solon from South Carolina, was discussing a certain newspaperman in the House Democratic cloakroom recently.

"I never had any trouble with Drew Pearson till I became chairman of the Armed Services Committee," said Rivers. "Even then I didn't have any real trouble with him until I ran afoul of McNamara."

"Now, whenever I tangle with Secretary McNamara, two days later I get a blast from Pearson. It's Secretary McNamara," concluded Rivers, "who's putting him up in these articles criticizing me."

Do-It-Yourself Lobby

Venezuela adopted a new approach on increasing its sugar quota the other day. It dispensed with lobbyists. When Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N.C., was chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, the custom was to hire a lobbyist friend of Cooley's which was pretty sure to get your sugar quota increased. When Venezuela hired lobbyist Charles Patrick Clark as its lobbyist, on Cooley's recommendation, Cooley promptly increased Venezuela's quota.

In the long run, however, this contributed to Cooley's defeat. He is no longer in Congress and Rep. Bob Poage of Texas now heads the House Agriculture Committee.

The other day a group of Venezuelans, chiefly members of the Venezuelan congress, came to Washington once again to increase their sugar quotas. They took the direct approach by calling on another Congressman—Poage.

At first the Congressman from Texas was not sympathetic. Venezuela was asking a temporary quota increase of 75,000 tons for one year. It now has a quota of only 24,000 tons but a surplus of 100,000 tons.

"What reason can I give Congress for increasing Venezuela's sugar quota over that of other countries?" Rep. Poage asked.

Fabio Gonzales, representative of the Small Farmers Union, replied that Venezuela had put across an agrarian reform, had divided the land from the big estates and allocated it to small farmers, as urged by the United States under the Alliance for Progress.

"We have gone ahead with this plan, and it has been very successful," Fabio said. "I myself have now received an allotment of land. And we have followed your advice in diversifying our production. Hitherto our economy depended almost entirely on oil. But when you have a lot of little landowners, they are anxious to produce, so we have a surplus of sugar."

"This division of the land and this production has kept people away from the guerrillas. We do not have guerrilla insurrections as in some other countries."

Rep. Poage replied that every Latin American country which wanted to increase its sugar quota had used the argument of the danger of guerrillas.

Best U. S. Customer

Ambassador Enrique Tejera-Paris, who accompanied the Venezuelan delegation, pointed out that Venezuela was the biggest purchaser of U. S. agricultural products in the Western Hemisphere. He mentioned wheat—a big item in Poage's home state—and pointed out that Venezuela had decreased the tax on U. S. wheat in order to help the American balance of payments. He emphasized the excellent relations between Venezuela and the United States, and Venezuela's immediate repayment of all loans to the United States.

"Australia is the biggest purchaser of our farm products," refuted Poage. "And in addition Australia is helping the United States in Vietnam. Venezuela is not."

"We came here not to sell a policy," replied Ambassador Tejera-Paris. "We came here to sell a product."

However, the Congressman from Texas appeared impressed by the fact that other congressmen from Venezuela should come to see him instead of employing a lobbyist. The delegation included—in addition to Ambassador Tejera-Paris and Fabio Gonzales—Jesus Paredes, Marcial Mendoza Estrella, Rodriguez Carbrice, Vicente Oropeza, and Dr. Cohenares Peraza, president of the Venezuelan Distribution of Sugar. All of the congressmen, incidentally, are in opposition to the Venezuelan administration.

The Venezuelans also called on Sen. Joseph Montoya of New Mexico and on Vice President Hubert Humphrey, both more sympathetic than Rep. Poage. They promised to do everything they could to help.

Actually an increase in the Venezuelan sugar quota does not depend on Congress. It can be increased by executive decree, regardless of Congress. President Johnson, after the Dominican revolution, increased that country's sugar quota in order to benefit the Dominican economy.

David Lawrence Says

Sen. Fulbright Would Publicize Secret Data

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most extraordinary intrusion into the operations of the armed services—an action which, if completed, could impair the future gathering of military intelligence—was revealed this week. It became known that the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had sent a letter to Secretary of State Dean Rusk demanding a detailed report of the intelligence-collection plans of the United States government involving naval vessels.

Up to now, intelligence activities of the military forces have been described only in general terms and certain phases have been explained in confidence to the Senate. But there has never been a request for the publication of details such as Senator J. William Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, asked for in his four-page questionnaire. These include "information which individual members desire."

While the Secretary of State can decline to provide answers on the ground that to do so is not in the public interest, the fact that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has interjected itself into military operations cannot but have a psychological effect abroad and reflect unfavorably on the United States.

The letter sent by Mr. Fulbright seeks a "complete description of the development of the intelligence-collection plan which include the use of the Pueblo and other vessels," together with the name of the "highest official in the United States government who is aware of the day-to-day operations" of such ships and the number of vessels which are "capable of this type of activity." It also questions the need for sending ships as close as 13 nautical miles to the coastline of another country.

Not satisfied with a request for general information, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman asks for disclosure of "what agency or agencies have operational responsibility for the Pueblo," along with "copies of all operational instructions and mission concepts relating to the Pueblo." He requests, too, a "full description of all intelligence equipment aboard the Pueblo" and of "the skills, training and affiliation of all personnel" on the ship.

Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader of the Senate and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, apparently was not too happy with the letter. When he heard about it, he said:

"Some questions can't be answered. We ought to move very carefully in some of these extremely sensitive areas if we expect the fullest operational capability in what is involved."

"We can't expect everything they have because that might be giving information too sensitive to people only too glad to have it in other countries."

The Fulbright letter states that it "is being circulated to all the members of the committee," but there is no indication of how many saw its text beforehand. The request involves delicate questions.

Nothing could be more harmful to the gathering of intelligence than to have the methods publicized by the Congress of the United States, including publication of details about equipment and the names of the persons in this country who actually are charged with the responsibility of supervising such operations.

The collecting of secret information is one of the most difficult tasks confronting the military services. There are intelligence units in the Army as well as in the Navy and the Air Force which are entirely separate from the Central Intelligence Agency, but all cooperate for one purpose—to get information essential to the successful operation of America's armed forces. Intelligence data often can be of crucial importance in military planning and can help save the lives of America's fighting men.

Partisan politics has certainly reached a critical point when even the party in power apparently cannot restrain its own members in the Senate from seeking to publicize information of a sensitive character. This could not happen under the parliamentary system. For the leadership would have to approve of such a step. Indeed, the chairman of a committee would not be permitted to remain in that post one day after he had written a letter of this kind if he had not obtained in advance the approval of the majority leader. Under the American system, on the other hand, there is irresponsibility in such matters, and the party in power seems helpless to discipline its own members.

Model Cities Program Cause Problems in Some Communities

By JAMES K. BATTEN
(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — In Winoski, Vt., on an icy January night when the mercury skidded to 26 degrees below zero, more than 225 residents of a tumbledown waterfront slum turned out for the Model-Cities election.

In Atlanta on a Sunday night in December, about 500 poor people, led by a bakery foreman named Deacon Lewis Peters, demanded five more seats on Atlanta's Model Cities executive board. They got them.

In Rochester, N. Y., the organization of Negro militants, FIGHT (Freedom, Independence, God, Honor, Today) is warning that "there will be no Model Cities program in Rochester" unless poor blacks are fully represented.

In these and many other of the nation's first 63 "Model Cities," last November's election at winning a spot in the program has given way to deep concern about a new question:

Allied Commanders Expect New, Perhaps Even Bloodier Fighting

By KEYES BEECH
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

SAIGON — The worst may be yet to come. The Communist offensive that swept the length of South Vietnam like a prairie fire last week seemed to have subsided. But even as it did, Allied commanders braced themselves for new and perhaps even bloodier fighting.

A U.S. command spokesman warned that the Communists have the capability — if not the intention — of mounting a "follow on" offensive of equal or greater strength.

Brig. Gen. Philip B. Davidson Jr., top U.S. intelligence officer, said the enemy committed less than half his known troop strength to the Tet (Vietnamese lunar new year) offensive that began Jan. 30 in the country's northernmost provinces, ripped into the heart of Saigon and wrought havoc in the densely populated Mekong Delta. Out of 115,000 regular combat soldiers, the Communists used an estimated 50,000 leaving an untapped reserve of 65,000 men, Davidson said.

It is of "enormous significance," Davidson said, that the Communists' major troop concentration—35,000 to 40,000 men deployed along the demilitarized zone—"remains silent."

Apparently in anticipation of a new attack on Saigon, military authorities imposed an ironclad 7 p.m. to 8 a.m. curfew on this once gay capital for Americans except those on official business.

Saigon's nearly 3,000,000 people were barred from the streets except between the hours of 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. It was the most complete clampdown this wicked and over-complacent but now chastened city has ever known.

Got What It Deserved

Despite all the blood spilled here last week, it was difficult to avoid the stern judgment that Saigon got what it so richly deserved. This city of pimps and prostitutes, beggars and bars, money-changers and profiteers now knows there is a war going on.

Perhaps — just perhaps — the Tet blood bath was the catharsis that was required to put the capital on a war footing. An estimated 500 to 700 Viet Cong still roamed the city. There were occasional firefights. But militarily speaking the situation was under control. Yet Davidson said the Communists have a "significant capability" to hit the Saigon-Bien Hoa area at any time. Bien-Hoa is the big U.S. airbase 12 miles from the capital.

There was doubt among seasoned observers of Viet Cong tactics that they would stage a repeat performance in Saigon. There was no need for it. They made their point last week when they proved they could penetrate the heart of the capital. Besides, the Vietnamese Communists are very conservative people, militarily speaking. As the Left-leaning journalist, Wilfred Burchett has observed, "If they are 95 percent sure of success they won't move. If they are 98 percent sure, they may. If 100 percent sure, they will."

Davidson said it was "something of a mystery" as to why the Communists haven't launched their long expected offensive across the DMZ into the northern provinces. He offered three possible reasons:

1. U.S. air power and artillery have hurt Hanoi's troops more than we know.

2. Perhaps Hanoi is awaiting results of its southern offensive before going into action.

3. Perhaps the enemy, with characteristic caution, is simply waiting to get all his ducks in a row before attacking.

A few observers doubted if the northern offensive will ever materialize. Contrary to what Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander, said last week, even more observers believed the massing along the DMZ was a diversionary move to suck American troops into the northern sector to disguise their real objective — the lightning-like Tet offensive.

Westmoreland said it was the other way 'round. Confidence in the Allied command here has been so severely shaken that a newspaperman's view is considered as valid as a general's.

LBJ Bids for 'Consumers Congress'

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, bidding to put the 90th Congress into the Record Book as the "Consumers' Congress," has outlined a new eight-point program for this year.

The proposals, most of which have been detailed before Tuesday's special presidential message, include improved fish and poultry inspection, safeguards against home improvement and other sales frauds, a study of auto insurance and boating safety standards.

Some proposals, such as radiation standards for color television and other electronic products, already have won strong support at congressional hearings.

Others, such as the Senate-passed gas pipeline safety bill and the measure to protect against the electric power blackouts, have drawn strong industry opposition but appear to have a good chance of enactment—if they can get out of committee.

Despite frequently difficult fights in committee where closed sessions conceal many votes, only a handful of members have cast negative votes in public against the growing list of consumer-oriented bills.

Consumer Bills
The record of major consumer bills before Congress shows:

1. Interest disclosure, passed last fall 403 to 1 by the House after a weaker bill had been approved 92 to 0 by the Senate in July.

2. Meat inspection, passed last fall 403 to 1 by the House, strengthened 89 to 2 by the Senate with a bill close to the stronger version finally passing the House 336 to 28.

3. Air pollution, passed 88 to 0 last year by the Senate and 362 to 0 by the House.

4. Flammable fabrics, passed last year by a voice vote in the Senate and by 325 to 0 in the House.

5. Auto safety and highway safety, passed unanimously by the Senate in 1966 and with just three dissenting votes—on the highway safety measure—in the House.

6. Fair packaging, passed 71 to 9 in the Senate in 1966 and 300 to 8 in the House after a committee had watered it down.

In none of these cases do the final votes indicate the strength of industry opposition and the difficult fight which faced proponents in pushing the measures through.

Interest Bill
The interest disclosure bill, described by some supporters as the strongest consumer bill ever to pass the House, is a good example of the way members reacted in committee and on the floor.

In the House Banking Committee, Democrats failed by a handful of votes to require that interest be expressed in annual percentages for revolving charge accounts and to include credit charges of under $10.

But when they tried on the floor, the provision covering revolving charge accounts won by a vote of 135 to 19, while the $10 limit was defeated by a voice vote.

In both cases, a key to the overwhelming votes was that the parliamentary situation would have required a roll call had the issue gone the other way. Even members opposing the two provisions were not eager to put their opposition on the record.

Map Plans to Prevent Riots At Democratic Convention

By EDMUND J. ROONEY

Waterton, Va., Feb. 4 — Chicago Police Supt. James B. Conlisk Jr. huddled here today with U. S. Justice Department experts to map strategy for putting down any possible rioting or street disorders during the Democratic National Convention next August.

Mayor Richard J. Daley is expected to join Conlisk here Thursday and Friday for the wind-up of the week-long special closed door meeting on riot control and prevention being held under the personal sponsorship of President Johnson.

"While we're absolutely optimistic that Chicago will not have serious trouble, it is obviously necessary that we also be well prepared for any unfortunate eventuality," Conlisk said.

"The eyes of the nation will be on Chicago in August when we expect thousands of visitors including some pickets and demonstrators."

Daley and Conlisk were summoned here by the President along with the police chiefs and mayors of some 120 other U. S. cities for top-level "brainstorming" sessions.

Allied Commanders Expect New, Perhaps Even Bloodier Fighting

By KEYES BEECH
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

SAIGON — The worst may be yet to come. The Communist offensive that swept the length of South Vietnam like a prairie fire last week seemed to have subsided. But even as it did, Allied commanders braced themselves for new and perhaps even bloodier fighting.

A U.S. command spokesman warned that the Communists have the capability—if not the intention—of mounting a "follow on" offensive of equal or greater strength.

Brig. Gen. Philip B. Davidson Jr., top U.S. intelligence officer, said the enemy committed less than half his known troop strength to the Tet (Vietnamese lunar new year) offensive that began Jan. 30 in the country's northernmost provinces, ripped into the heart of Saigon and wrought havoc in the densely populated Mekong Delta. Out of 115,000 regular combat soldiers, the Communists used an estimated 50,000 leaving an untapped reserve of 65,000 men, Davidson said.

It is of "enormous significance," Davidson said, that the Communists' major troop concentration—35,000 to 40,000 men deployed along the demilitarized zone—"remains silent."

Apparently in anticipation of a new attack on Saigon, military authorities imposed an ironclad 7 p.m. to 8 a.m. curfew on this once gay capital for Americans except those on official business.

Saigon's nearly 3,000,000 people were barred from the streets except between the hours of 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. It was the most complete clampdown this wicked and over-complacent but now chastened city has ever known.

Got What It Deserved

Despite all the blood spilled here last week, it was difficult to avoid the stern judgment that Saigon got what it so richly deserved. This city of pimps and prostitutes, beggars and bars, money-changers and profiteers now knows there is a war going on.

Perhaps — just perhaps — the Tet blood bath was the catharsis that was required to put the capital on a war footing. An estimated 500 to 700 Viet Cong still roamed the city. There were occasional firefights. But militarily speaking the situation was under control. Yet Davidson said the Communists have a "significant capability" to hit the Saigon-Bien Hoa area at any time. Bien-Hoa is the big U.S. airbase 12 miles from the capital.

There was doubt among seasoned observers of Viet Cong tactics that they would stage a repeat performance in Saigon. There was no need for it. They made their point last week when they proved they could penetrate the heart of the capital. Besides, the Vietnamese Communists are very conservative people, militarily speaking. As the Left-leaning journalist, Wilfred Burchett has observed, "If they are 95 percent sure of success they won't move. If they are 98 percent sure, they may. If 100 percent sure, they will."

Davidson said it was "something of a mystery" as to why the Communists haven't launched their long expected offensive across the DMZ into the northern provinces. He offered three possible reasons:

1. U.S. air power and artillery have hurt Hanoi's troops more than we know.
2. Perhaps Hanoi is awaiting results of its southern offensive before going into action.
3. Perhaps the enemy, with characteristic caution, is simply waiting to get all his ducks in a row before attacking.

A few observers doubted if the northern offensive will ever materialize. Contrary to what Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander, said last week, even more observers believed the massing along the DMZ was a diversionary move to suck American troops into the northern sector to disguise their real objective — the lightning-like Tet offensive.

Westmoreland said it was the other way 'round. Confidence in the Allied command here has been so severely shaken that a newspaperman's view is considered as valid as a general's.

LBJ Bids for 'Consumers Congress'

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, bidding to put the 90th Congress into the Record Book as the "Consumers' Congress," has outlined a new eight-point program for this year.

The proposals, most of which have been detailed before Tuesday's special presidential message, include improved fish and poultry inspection, safeguards against home improvement and other sales frauds, a study of auto insurance and boating safety standards.

Some proposals, such as radiation standards for color television and other electronic products, already have won strong support at congressional hearings.

Others, such as the Senate-passed gas pipeline safety bill and the measure to protect against the electric power blackouts, have drawn strong industry opposition but appear to have a good chance of enactment—if they can get out of committee.

Despite frequently difficult fights in committee where closed sessions conceal many votes, only a handful of members have cast negative votes in public against the growing list of consumer-oriented bills.

Consumer Bills

The record of major consumer bills before Congress shows:

1. Interest disclosure, passed 382 to 4 last week by the House after a weaker bill had been approved 92 to 0 by the Senate in July.

2. Meat inspection, passed last fall 403 to 1 by the House, strengthened 89 to 2 by the Senate with a bill close to the stronger version finally passing the House 336 to 28.

3. Air pollution, passed 88 to 0 last year by the Senate and 362 to 0 by the House.

4. Flammable fabrics, passed last year by a voice vote in the Senate and by 325 to 0 in the House.

5. Auto safety and highway safety, passed unanimously by the Senate in 1966 and with just three dissenting votes—on the highway safety measure—in the House.

6. Fair packaging, passed 71 to 9 in the Senate in 1966 and 300 to 8 in the House after a committee had watered it down.

In none of these cases do the final votes indicate the strength of industry opposition and the difficult fight which faced proponents in pushing the measures through.

Interest Bill

The interest disclosure bill, described by some supporters as the strongest consumer bill ever to pass the House, is a good example of the way members reacted in committee and on the floor.

In the House Banking Committee, Democrats failed by a handful of votes to require that interest be expressed in annual percentages for revolving charge accounts and to include credit charges of under $10.

But when they tried on the floor, the provision covering revolving charge accounts won by a vote of 135 to 19, while the $10 limit was defeated by a voice vote.

In both cases, a key to the overwhelming votes was that the parliamentary situation would have required a roll call had the issue gone the other way. Even members opposing the two provisions were not eager to put their opposition on the record.

PLAYS RE-EXPORTED

NEW YORK (AP)—The off-Broadway producers of two plays from Africa plan to send a touring company to Africa. "The Trials of Brother Jero" and "The Strong Breed," written by Wole Soyinka of Nigeria, are being transferred to enlarged quarters here on the strength of critical and public interest.
Kenneth Farris, cosponsor of the show with his wife Cynthia Belgrave, said they are interested in exporting a troupe to Lagos, Nigeria, as a measure of support for Soyinka, a political prisoner in his homeland.

PLAYS RE-EXPORTED
NEW YORK (AP)—The off-Broadway producers of two plays from Africa plan to send a touring company to Africa. "The Trials of Brother Jero" and "The Strong Breed," written by Wole Soyinka of Nigeria, are being transferred to enlarged quarters here on the strength of critical and public interest.

Kenneth Farris, cosponsor of the show with his wife Cynthia Belgrave, said they are interested in exporting a troupe to Lagos, Nigeria, as a measure of support for Soyinka, a political prisoner in his homeland.

Confused, Disillusioned, Cynical Public Says Gallup

BY GAYLORD SHAW

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Pollster George Gallup, now in his fourth decade of surveying the moods of America, says the public today is confused, disillusioned and cynical and "wants desperately to find a way to resolve international problems without going to war."

"I think this goes back pretty much to their feeling of the inadequacy of the leadership of our country," says the man who founded the Gallup Poll in 1935. "Only a handful of Americans want to pull out of Vietnam, or to 'end the war by starting to drop nuclear bombs,'" Gallup said in an interview.

Seven out of 10 prefer bringing the South Vietnamese "up to fighting level," he said, "then phasing out our own operations."

Nixon Way Ahead

Turning to politics, Gallup said Americans hold "no great enthusiasm" for any of the potential presidential candidates. As of now, he said, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is "far, far ahead" in the race for the Republican nomination, although he termed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York the strongest candidate the GOP could pick.

He said President Johnson is not in as much trouble politically "as the Republicans like to think," although the outcome of next November's election could hinge on the course of the Vietnam war.

Here is the question-and-answer interview:

Q. Dr. Gallup, how would you describe the current mood of America?

A. I think the mood of America today is one of rather great confusion and disillusionment. All the time we've been operating, 32 years now, I've never known a time like this—when people were so disillusioned and cynical. I think this goes back pretty much to their feeling of the inadequacy of the leadership of our country... the public wants desperately to find a way to resolve international problems without going to war.

Q. What does the public want to do in Vietnam?

A. First, only a small number just want to pull out tomorrow. On the other hand, that small group is balanced by about the same number of people who would end the war by starting to drop nuclear bombs. The views of the great majority of the people fall in between these two extremes.

A few months ago, we submitted seven different proposals that had been presented for resolving the war. The one most widely supported (by 71 per cent of the people) is one that would have our Army officers start doing a job of really training the South Vietnamese, bringing them up to fighting level, then phasing out our own operations. Within a period of time, they would be carrying the burden. We would still be supporting them. Most people see that sooner or later this plan has to be adopted. We can't stay there forever and prop them up.

More Practical Plan

The second most popular plan calls for turning over the whole problem to the United Nations, even if the United Nations tells us we must get out. Of the two plans, I think myself that the first one is more practical—to phase out.

Q. What do Americans view as the big problems of our day?

A. First of all, obviously, is Vietnam. In second position, comes racial problems. Inflation is rapidly moving up in importance. I would think next in order would be the crime problem in America. A lot of people tend to associate crime with riots. The problem of crime is of great, major concern. The strength of the Wallace third party movement is largely based upon the crime issue. Many of Wallace's supporters are concerned with respect for law and order.

Q. Is President Johnson in trouble politically?

A. Our data indicates not as much as the Republicans like to think. Johnson, from almost every point of view, and especially with the possibility of a Wallace candidacy, is still in a pretty strong position—because the one candidate who could appeal to independents and dissident Democrats is Nelson Rockefeller, and his chances of winning the nomination at this time cannot be called too rosy.

Q. Then you think Rockefeller would be the strongest Republican candidate?

Calls Rocky Strongest

A. At this time he is, yes. The reasons go back to the simple arithmetic of the whole political scene. In these surveys, one of the standard questions is "Do you regard yourself as a Republican, Democrat or independent?" In 1940, the number of people who regarded themselves as Republicans was just about equal to the number that called themselves Democrats. Through the years, the Democrats have declined in number and popularity, and now about 27 per cent of the American public identifies itself with the Republican party; about 42 per cent with the Democratic party, and about 31 per cent call themselves independents. This is the highest figure for independents we've ever had. You might say that on this basis the Republican party is a third party—Republicans polling their full strength would be hopelessly defeated. They've got to get a considerable number of the independents and chip away at the Democrats to get over that 50 per cent line. The Republicans need, obviously, a coalition-type candidate.

Q. Who do you predict will be the Republican presidential nominee?

A. The word predict is one we try like hell to avoid. All we can do is report sentiment at a certain time... You can say, as of the present time among Republicans, Nixon is far, far ahead. We also poll Republican county chairmen, and they reflect party sentiment at the local level pretty well. They give Nixon a very big lead.

Will Resume Grave Digging At Prison Farm

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — State Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton says all bodies in unmarked graves at Cummins and Tucker prison farms will be dug up.

The State Prison Board gave him a free hand Wednesday to resume the digging.

There has been no digging at the farms since Jan. 29 when Reuben Johnson, a Cummins inmate, led Murton to an area where three human skeletons in makeshift wooden caskets were unearthed.

Murton said digging would start after he followed the board's recommendation to establish pauper cemeteries at both prisons.

Since Jan. 29, many ex-convicts have reported that there were many more bodies buried there and that they had seen inmates killed.

Some former prison officials have said the three skeletons came from a pauper graveyard.

Man Found Dead

Karlis Konstantins Jansons, 59, of 1 Pine Street, Ellenville, was found dead in his room at that address at 7 a. m. today by Andrew Helgeson of the same address, who notified village police. The body was removed to the County Morgue at Kingston Hospital where an examination disclosed death was due to natural causes, the coroner said. Jansons was born in Valka, Latvia, Feb. 5, 1909. He had been employed at Channel Master Corp. the last 18 years. A niece, Venta Avians, of Montreal, Canada, was notified and funeral arrangements will be made.

GOP Hopefuls Visiting

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republican candidates sought out voters in Oklahoma and New Hampshire and former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace flew into Washington, apparently to announce he'll run for president on a third party ticket.

Wallace has scheduled a news conference to reveal what his aides termed his "intentions" regarding the 1968 presidential campaign. One aide said privately Wallace wouldn't go to Washington to say he's not going to run.

In New Hampshire, political aides of Michigan Gov. George Romney indicated a personal tour by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York may be used to bolster the Romney campaign with New Hampshire voters.

One Romney campaign source said a Rockefeller visit would be designed to discourage support for the New York Governor in the March 12 New Hampshire Primary.

"Whatever Rockefeller can do to minimize this vote, he'll do it," said Leonard W. Hall, chairman of Romney's national campaign organization.

"Gov. Rockefeller has indicated as thoroughly as the English language will permit him to indicate that he's not going to be a candidate, that he doesn't want to be president," Hall said.

Tax Deadline This Saturday

Saturday is the deadline for payment of real estate taxes without penalty in most townships although the State Legislature is not expected to validate Ulster County's $15 million budget until some time next week.

An accompanying bill if approved will legalize the extension of payment without penalty from Jan. 31 to Saturday. In any case Saturday is the deadline. After Saturday property owners paying tax bills will be assessed 1 per cent additional for the remainder of February. If payment is made after February the additional fee is 1½ per cent for all of March.

Some towns do not wish to anticipate the passage of the deadline extension bill and announced the deadline for payment of taxes without penalty as Jan. 31. If and when the bill passes the question of refunds of penalty payments will materialize.

The validation bill has passed the Senate and when passed by the Assembly and signed by the governor, the county's budget will be legal.

Validation of the budget was necessary because adoption by the board of supervisors was delayed beyond the state's deadline.

The reports that the county will be unable to meet payrolls in March due to the problems with this year's budget are unfounded. Sources close to the county treasurer's office indicate that several million dollars have already been collected in corporate taxes and are in the coffers of the treasurer's office.

In Oklahoma City, Richard M. Nixon drew large bursts of cheers and applause when he told a GOP fund-raising dinner that he intends to give the nation new leadership. He asked them to join a "new coalition" that he said crosses all party and ideological lines.

Oklahoma Republicans will elect the nation's first delegates to the GOP's national convention when they hold district conventions this weekend.

The former vice president put in his bid for their support before flying to Denver where he is to meet with his campaign heads in 14 western states.

In other political developments:

—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., also campaigning in New Hampshire, said he is willing to debate all the Republican and Democratic presidential possibilities—including President Johnson.

—Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner declared he will not seek a third term because of personal reasons concerning "the health and happiness of my family." A list of possible contenders to succeed him includes R. Sargent Shriver, director of the federal anti-poverty program and Illinois State Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III, son of the late ambassador to the United Nations.

—Harry N. Thayer, president of radio station WGHQ, made known today that the American Federation of Technicians and Radio Artists has petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for a hearing with respect to unionizing WGHQ's announcing and news staffs.

Thayer said, "We understand there are six who signed the petition."

The NLRB has set a hearing in Albany for Monday, Feb. 19 at 1 p. m. at which time it will appear with our attorneys Gilbert and Segall of New York City to oppose the petition," Thayer said.

According to WGHQ's president, 30 per cent of the eligible employees in the two categories specified are needed for affiliation. If the required percentage votes for affiliation then AFTRA will be successful in its efforts, Thayer noted. Otherwise, the union will be unsuccessful.

Charge Man With Pushing Wife Into Saw

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A 53-year-old Plattsburgh man has been remitted to Clinton County Jail here pending a grand jury hearing on a charge that he pushed his wife into a circular saw.

Andrew Burleigh was charged Monday with first-degree assault.

State Police said the incident took place last September when Burleigh's wife, Lorraine, 38, was helping her husband cut wood with a saw powered by a farm tractor near their home.

BCI Investigator Thomas Burns said Burleigh was arrested Jan. 20, following more than a month of investigation, because Mrs. Burleigh "was in such critical condition that she couldn't be questioned until December."

The incident originally was reported as an accident.

Mrs. Burleigh is no longer hospitalized, troopers said, but still requires extensive rehabilitation treatment due to paralysis from cuts about the head and shoulders.

Ulster County legislators meeting 8 o'clock tonight face a busy agenda with a large variety of resolutions filed for adoption including one which will implement the acceptance of an $8,250 federal grant for advanced planning of a proposed county airport.

Ulster County's share of the planning cost would also be $8,250. The preliminary study report of the County Airport Study Commission calls for an all-weather air strip between 3,500 to 5,000 feet in length.

Another resolution requests the purchase for $58,000 of the Dr. Anthony J. Tocco home on Route 209, Stone Ridge for a permanent residence for Dr. George B. Erbstein, president of Ulster County Community College. If approved the money would come from the McDonald DeWitt Fund with matching funds from the state.

A resolution is also expected to be filed for a proposed local law to close all commercial establishments on Memorial Day as a proper respect to the veterans who have given their lives in the wars in which the United States has been involved. The local law was suggested by Ulster County American Legion.

A proposal if approved would authorize the County Health Department to use state funds totaling $42,970 in a program of rat control allocated through the State Health Department.

Replacement of the Legs Mills Bridge at Lake Katrine with a new modern structure to meet the increasing traffic in the Town of Ulster will also be proposed by resolution. The present one-lane span was built in 1891.

Decline Always Possible but Good Stocks Usually Recover

Q—We are 44 and would like to increase our capital at retirement to supplement Social Security. Our feelings are mixed, as we're afraid this market may take a real plunge this year and we can't afford any loss. Frankly, we've never been lucky. It's an awful way to feel, but we also felt we could be free to tell you—G. H.

A—And indeed you can. I can't guarantee that the market won't take a bath this year. I am generally optimistic, but investor psychology changes rapidly, and we get a decline usually when we least expect it. If you don't invest in good growth stocks, though, you are possibly going to encounter continued loss in purchasing power through erosion of your dollars.

I believe you should overcome your fear and put some funds into stocks. Face the fact that all stocks fluctuate and that strong growth issues, held over a period of years, have usually enhanced their owners' capital substantially. I believe that you could buy American Hospital Supply, without undue worry. I also recommend Avon Products, which has had a remarkable record of gains with relatively minor price reactions, and Georgia Pacific Corp. — in my opinion the best of the forest products stocks.

Keep a reserve so that you don't have to sell in a bad market. Look ahead 20 years, and I think you will do well with these issues.

Q—I have been buying E bonds and putting them away for the day I retire in 10 years and then cashing one a month to supplement Social Security. Is there any reason why I can't continue this? Must they be redeemed after seven years?

—P. J.

A—There is no reason why you cannot continue. All E bonds now sold are guaranteed a 10-year extension. You can defer federal income taxes until maturity or redemption and will presumably cash them in when your tax liability is lowest after retirement.

On the East-West side, second place went to Dr. and Mrs. Harry McNamara of Kingston.

The Glenelg Bridge Club will hold its regular fractional point game at the Elks Club, Friday, 7:30 p. m. All bridge players may attend.

LEAVING INQUEST — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ault, Phoenix, Arizona, are shown as they left inquest into the death of their daughter, Linda Marie, 21. The couple said the girl shot herself instead of the pet dog after being ordered by the parents to kill the dog as punishment for staying out all night with a man. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Charge Woman With Forgery

A 20-year-old Sawkill woman was arrested Wednesday by the Kingston detective division and charged with three counts of forgery.

According to the record at the city court, Rose Marie Bier of Magic Drive, Sawkill, was picked up at 4:20 p. m. Wednesday for allegedly forging three checks totaling $425.

Miss Bier reportedly used the name Mary Andrews on the checks.

The three checks were drawn on the Kingston Trust Company in the account of a Philip Posner, state the reports.

One check, made out to cash and endorsed by Mary Andrews was presented to the Grand Union Company in the Kingston Shopping Plaza. It was for $40.

The second check was reportedly cashed at the State of New York National Bank.

Miss Bier is charged with three counts of forgery in the third degree, withdrawing funds from the account of Philip Posner without his consent.

She was arraigned before Special City Judge George A. Beck in city court at 9 a. m. this morning.

She requested counsel and the judge postponed her case until tomorrow at 9 a. m. No bail was set and Miss Bier was remanded to the Ulster County jail to await the court's action.

Money Is Chief Topic

Ulster County legislators meeting 8 o'clock tonight face a busy agenda with a large variety of resolutions filed for adoption including one which will implement the acceptance of an $8,250 federal grant for advanced planning of a proposed county airport.

Ulster County's share of the planning cost would also be $8,250. The preliminary study report of the County Airport Study Commission calls for an all-weather air strip between 3,500 to 5,000 feet in length.

Another resolution requests the purchase for $58,000 of the Dr. Anthony J. Tocco home on Route 209, Stone Ridge for a permanent residence for Dr. George B. Erbstein, president of Ulster County Community College. If approved the money would come from the McDonald DeWitt Fund with matching funds from the state.

A resolution is also expected to be filed for a proposed local law to close all commercial establishments on Memorial Day as a proper respect to the veterans who have given their lives in the wars in which the United States has been involved. The local law was suggested by Ulster County American Legion.

A proposal if approved would authorize the County Health Department to use state funds totaling $42,970 in a program of rat control allocated through the State Health Department.

Replacement of the Leggs Mills Bridge at Lake Katrine with a new modern structure to meet the increasing traffic in the Town of Ulster will also be proposed by resolution. The present one-lane span was built in 1891.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR

Investment Advisor & Analyst

Decline Always Possible but Good Stocks Usually Recover

Q—We are 44 and would like to increase our capital at retirement to supplement Social Security. Our feelings are mixed, as we're afraid this market may take a real plunge this year and we can't afford any loss. Frankly, we've never been lucky. It's an awful way to feel, but we also felt we could be free to tell you—G. H.

A—And indeed you can. I can't guarantee that the market won't take a bath this year. I am generally optimistic, but investor psychology changes rapidly, and we get a decline usually when we least expect it.

If you don't invest in good growth stocks, though, you are possibly going to encounter continued loss in purchasing power through erosion of your dollars.

I believe you should overcome your fear and put some funds into stocks. Face the fact that all stocks fluctuate and that strong growth issues, held over a period of years, have usually enhanced their owners' capital substantially. I believe that you could buy American Hospital Supply without undue worry. I also recommend Avon Products, which has had a remarkable record of gains with relatively minor price reactions, and Georgia-Pacific Corp. — in my opinion the best of the forest products stocks.

Keep a reserve so that you don't have to sell in a bad market. Look ahead 20 years, and I think you will do well with these issues.

Q—I have been buying E bonds and putting them away for the day I retire in 10 years and then cashing one a month to supplement Social Security. Is there any reason why I can't continue this? Must they be redeemed after seven years?

—P. J.

A—There is no reason why you cannot continue. All E bonds now sold are guaranteed a 10-year extension. You can defer federal income taxes until maturity or redemption and will presumably cash them in when your tax liability is lowest after retirement.

Life Sentence
May Be Penalty
For Drug Selling

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Life imprisonment would await persons convicted of selling marijuana or other narcotics to minors, under terms of a Senate-approved bill awaiting Assembly action.

Under current law, selling "dangerous drugs" unlawfully to a person under the age of 21 is a class B felony and carries a maximum prison term of 25 years.

The measure was passed unanimously and without debate in the Senate on Tuesday. Sen. Edward E. Lentol, D-Brooklyn, sponsor of the bill, said Wednesday he was surprised at its easy passage, adding that he had expected some argument that a life penalty would be too severe.

The measure, generally increasing present penalties for drug peddling, would make the selling of drugs to minors a class A felony and would mandate a life sentence.

The bill also would increase from 15 to 25 years the maximum penalty for selling dangerous drugs unlawfully to adults or for possessing them unlawfully.

Marijuana, heroin, morphine, cocaine and opium are among those specifically designated as dangerous drugs.

Realtor Attends Florida Session

Attending a recent advanced seminar on Marketing Investment Properties held in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was Howard L. Fox, realtor, of O'Connor & Fox Real Estate, 609 Albany Avenue Extension.

During the seminar several informative matters were brought out in discussion including:

Improved real estate (such as apartments and office building) can offer excellent investment opportunities. There are also attractive tax benefits that accrue to improved property owners.

Good investment property can provide a hedge against inflation—appreciation in value—tax shelter and income. However, all properties should be thoroughly analyzed and carefully selected in order to fit the exact needs of the investor.

A competent realtor must be trained in investment property analysis—investor counseling and he must have a working knowledge of the constantly changing income tax rulings as they effect investments.

HOWARD L. FOX

Seminars have been devised to provide this specialized training for realtors who wish to offer professional service to buyers and sellers of investment properties.

KFC Franchisee Attends Meeting

Jon A. Headlee, Kentucky Fried Chicken Corporation franchisee for Kingston, participated in operations planning for 1968 at the organization's national convention recently at Miami, Fla., attended by more than 1,000 franchisees and their wives.

Paul Harvey, noted news commentator, Jeanne Dixon, famed prophetess, and key members of the KFC management team were speakers. Others who spoke at the annual meeting were Jack C. Massey, board chairman; John Y. Brown Jr., president, and Col. Harland Sanders, the founder.

In business meetings of the convention, the group saw a preview of the 1968 advertising campaign, discussed the new merchandising concept of "sudden service," soon to be standard through the KFC system, and heard presentations on new equipment and new products.

Recreational activities included golf tournament, a Jai Alai game, and afternoon at Hialeah Race Track and tour of the historic Viscaya Italian place.

Realtor Attends Florida Session

Attending a recent advanced seminar on Marketing Investment Properties held in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was Howard L. Fox, realtor, of O'Connor & Fox Real Estate, 609 Albany Avenue Extension.

During the seminar several informative matters were brought out in discussion including:

Improved real estate (such as apartments and office building) can offer excellent investment opportunities. There are also attractive tax benefits that accrue to improved property owners.

Good investment property can provide a hedge against inflation—appreciation in value—tax shelter and income. However, all properties should be thoroughly analyzed and carefully selected in order to fit the exact needs of the investor.

A competent realtor must be trained in investment property analysis—investor counseling and he must have a working knowledge of the constantly changing income tax rulings as they effect investments.

HOWARD L. FOX

Seminars have been devised to provide this specialized training for realtors who wish to offer professional service to buyers and sellers of investment properties.

Dutchess Symposium on Narcotics

Dr. Henry Brill, vice-chairman of the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, will be one of the principal speakers at the symposium on drugs to be held at Dutchess Community College Saturday, Feb. 10.

Dr. Brill, on leave of absence from his position as director of Pilgrim State Hospital, Brentwood, will discuss "The Marijuana Question."

His appearance will be a highlight in the day-long conference. Dutchess students have arranged for administrators and student leaders from two-year units of the State University.

Dutchess is sponsoring the symposium because it is "important for colleges to assume scholarly responsibility in surveying the ramifications of drug use in order to direct some of today's misguided youth," said Anthony A. Adamo, director of student affairs at DCC, who is supervising the program.

Other program participants will include the Reverend Michael J. Dibble, currently a counselor and teacher at Our Lady of Lourdes H.S. and formerly with Synanon, a rehabilitation organization for narcotics addicts. He will talk on "Drugs and the College Student."

A panel discussion and question-and-answer period will make up the afternoon session. Scheduled to speak are David Deitch, now executive director of Daytop Village, Inc., New York City, as well as Walter Andrews and Amos Henix, group therapists at Reality House, New York City and Greenhaven Prison. All three representatives of these rehabilitation programs are former addicts themselves.

He has also contributed more than a dozen books on these subjects. Associated with Pilgrim State Hospital for more than 18 years, he has also been director of Craig House, the state hospital for epilepsy. As a member of the central office staff of the State Department of Mental Hygiene, he has been responsible for the development and evaluation of its program of psychiatric drug therapy. A graduate of Yale University, Dr. Brill has taught at Albany Medical College, the State University Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse, and Columbia University Medical School.

Appropriations For Palsy Increase

The research appropriations of United Cerebral Palsy Association, Inc. (UCPA) in 1967 were 1000 times greater than in 1949, the voluntary health agency's first year of operation.

Expenditures totaling more than $894,000 earmarked for investigational and training projects in cerebral palsy and related fields are detailed in the combined annual report of UCPA and its research arm, United Cerebral Palsy Research and Educational Foundation. This brings the total to over $10 million spent by the agency in its nationwide effort to discover the causes and means for preventing cerebral palsy.

A Crippling Disease

Edward deGroff, president, United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County, announced that nationally, UCPA raised $12,400,000 in 1967 to support programs of care and training for more than 600,000 cerebral palsy victims in the United States. Of this total, $6,498,76 was raised by UCP of Ulster County, deGroff said. "Our program is a partnership for life approach with the patient and his family. Cerebral palsy is not a killer, but crippler which affects the victim for his lifetime."

He noted that 75 per cent of the funds raised in Ulster-Greene Counties are used to provide direct services for 170 children and adults in this area who are afflicted and that the remainder is allocated for national programs of professional education, training and research.

Many Services

Locally, the organization leader said, the cerebral palsy group provides the following services: diagnostic screening by consultants, orthopedic, speech and hearing specialists; psychometric testing; psychological counseling; fitting and repair of orthopedic appliances for children and adults; audiometric testing and fitting of hearing aids; speech therapy, physical therapy nursery school, loan of special equipment for home use; and limited volunteer driver service. United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County, a Community Chest Agency, is the only qualified treatment center for handicapped children in the area.

Mission Magic Slated Sunday At Kerhonkson

The Rev. Ralph E. Dailey, missionary and Christian magician, will be guest speaker at the Federated Church of Kerhonkson, at 11 a. m. Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Dailey was guest speaker at the Jan. 7 Sunday school session at the Kerhonkson church.

The Rev. Mr. Dailey served under Arctic Missions, Inc., as missionary in Alaska for several years and is now Eastern Representative of the mission board. He resides in Verona, N. J., with his wife and three children, two of whom were born in Alaska.

The Daileys went to Alaska in 1954 as missionaries to the Aleut people on Kodiak Island. Later, moving to the Interior of Alaska, they worked with the Eskimos and Indians along the Tanana and Yukon Rivers.

Using an unusual collection of curios and colored slides, he will be sharing personal experiences and observations of the life, culture and spiritual opportunities of the Northland.

8th Event Set Feb. 24

The eighth annual cocktail party and dance sponsored by the Ulster County Young Republican Club will be held Saturday, Feb. 24, at 9 p. m., in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mrs. Patricia Kelly, general chairman, said that "We are pleased to honor Jimmy DeCicco and Mrs. Lucille Salapatis at this event. They are two citizens of whom all Ulster County can be proud."

"They have devoted their energies unselfishly to countless civic and charitable causes." Appointed to committees for the event are Al Anderson and Mrs. Mary-Wynne Eggleston; publicity, Mrs. Lucille Ingarra, Miss Judy Petro and Miss Dorothy Pisano; tickets, James Rapp and Mrs. Barbara Pare; arrangements, Richard Cahill, orchestra and Mrs. Virginia Meuser, presentation. Equitable Life Lists Dividends

The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S. will distribute approximately $29,150,000 in individual life insurance and annuity dividends to residents of the state of New York in 1968, it was announced by Fritz A. Hausermann, agency manager. Hausermann reported that for the nation as a whole, Equitable will distribute approximately $165,800,000 in individual life insurance and annuity dividends, a record amount involving an increase of about $11,500,000 over 1967. He said that about 40 per cent of the national increase will result from the change in the dividend scale, with the remainder stemming from the fact that policies have been in force for one year longer and from the greater amount of life insurance in force.

Hatchets Needed in Paraguay

COLONIA STROESSNER, Paraguay—A Salesian priest in Paraguay is begging people in the U. S. A. not to bury the hatchet. He can put your hatchet to very good use.

Stroessner is a colony in Paraguay, on the boundary with Brazil, where a few hundred families have been given land by the Paraguayan Government. The land has been given free, but since it is all thick jungle, the land is not worth much unless it is cleared of jungle growth, unless there are roads, water supply and other basic services.

Father Guido Coronel, S.D.B., is the pastor of the colony. Father has organized all the men of the colony to work one day a week for community projects: opening up roads, building a school, drilling wells, etc. The response on the part of the men is most gratifying. However, there is a great shortage of axes and hatchets. The job of cutting down jungle growth is gigantic. The women and the children also help; therefore, a hatchet, no matter how small, will be extremely useful.

Father Coronel suggests that any axe or hatchet not being used in American homes, be sent to him at the following address:

Rev. Guido Coronel
Colonia Stroessner
Paraguay
The people of the Stroessner colony are not asking for bread. They want to grow their own food. All they need is your hatchets or axes.

Washington Day Dinner Plans Are Completed

Plans are nearing completion for the 43rd annual Washington Day dinner sponsored by the Men's Club of Old Dutch Church.

The dinner will be held at the Old Dutch Church Bethany Hall 6:30 p. m. Feb. 22. Tickets may be obtained from Richard Roth, Men's Club president. General chairman of the dinner is Clair Shaeffer.

Find Heroin In Vacant Lot Near Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Several students from School 17 and a school crossing guard learned they had uncovered $3,000 worth of heroin after they found 200 packets of mysterious white powder in a vacant lot Wednesday.

Mrs. Lucy Cooper, the guard, noticed some students holding small packets containing the white stuff as she brought the pupils back to the elementary school during the lunch hour.

The children told Mrs. Cooper they had discovered the packets in a vacant lot across from the school where they had been playing. Mrs. Cooper found more packets hidden in a tree stump and scattered among bushes when she checked the lot.

She brought the 200 packets to police asking them if they knew what it was. Police, who said the powder probably was heroin, said a narcotics peddler might have stashed the heroin there as a temporary hiding place.

She asked police to come back to the school with her to find out if any of the children still had some of the packets. School 17 is located at 1820 Main St.

Dutchess Symposium on Narcotics

Dr. Henry Brill, vice-chairman of the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, will be one of the principal speakers at the symposium on drugs to be held at Dutchess Community College Saturday, Feb. 10.

Dr. Brill, on leave of absence from his position as director of Pilgrim State Hospital, Brentwood, will discuss "The Marijuana Question."

His appearance will be a highlight in the day-long conference Dutchess students have arranged for administrators and student leaders from two-year units of the State University.

Dutchess is sponsoring the symposium because it is "important for colleges to assume scholarly responsibility in surveying the ramifications of drug use in order to direct some of today's misguided youth," said Anthony A. Adamo, director of student affairs at DCC, who is supervising the program.

Other program participants will include the Reverend Michael J. Dibble, currently a counselor and teacher at Our Lady of Lourdes H.S. and formerly with Synanon, a rehabilitation organization for narcotics addicts. He will talk on "Drugs and the College Student."

A panel discussion and question-and-answer period will make up the afternoon session.

Scheduled to speak are David Deitch, now executive director of Daytop Village, Inc., New York City, as well as Walter Andrews and Amos Henix, group therapists at Reality House, New York City and Greenhaven Prison. All three representatives of these rehabilitation programs are former addicts themselves.

Richard Gelb, a counselor and group therapist for Reality House, will also participate.

Dr. Brill, who will address the luncheon gathering, is the author of over 100 articles on psychiatry, administrative problems in the field, and narcotics. He has also contributed to more than a dozen books on these subjects.

Associated with Pilgrim State Hospital for more than 18 years, he has also been director of Craig House, the state hospital for epilepsy.

As a member of the central office staff of the State Department of Mental Hygiene, he has been responsible for the development and evaluation of its program of psychiatric drug therapy.

A graduate of Yale University, Dr. Brill has taught at Albany Medical College, the State University Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse, and Columbia University Medical School.

Find Heroin In Vacant Lot Near Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Several students from School 17 and a school crossing guard learned they had uncovered $3,000 worth of heroin after they found 200 packets of mysterious white powder in a vacant lot Wednesday.

Mrs. Lucy Cooper, the guard, noticed some students holding small packets containing the white stuff as she brought the pupils back to the elementary school during the lunch hour.

The children told Mrs. Cooper they had discovered the packets in a vacant lot across from the school where they had been playing. Mrs. Cooper found more packets hidden in a tree stump and scattered among bushes when she checked the lot.

She asked police to come back to the school with her to find out if any of the children still had some of the packets. School 17 is located at 1820 Main St.

53,000 U. S. Road Toll

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents killed 53,000 persons last year, matching the 1966 toll, but an increase in travel resulted in a lower death rate for distance covered.

In announcing this today, Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said, "these 1967 traffic statistics support our conviction that the traffic loss of lives and dollars on the highways is an unnecessary expense that the nation can control."

The cost of the 1967 accidents was estimated at $11 billion. Deaths in December totaled 5,210, up 3 per cent from the 5,040 killed in December 1966. The 1967 rate was 5.5 fatalities per 100 million vehicle miles, a 4 per cent decrease from the 1966 rate of 5.7 deaths. The record low of 5.2 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles was set in 1961. In 1957, the rate was 6.6. Mileage traveled in 1967 rose to 970 billion from 930.5 billion in 1966, an increase of 4 per cent.

The council estimated that traffic accidents caused 1.9 million disabling injuries last year in addition to the deaths. Of the $11 billion economic loss, 3.5 billion came from damaged and destroyed property and the remainder from wage losses, medical expenses and overhead cost of insurance. There were 103 million registered drivers at the end of 1967 and 100 million registered vehicles.

53,000 U. S. Road Toll

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents killed 53,000 persons last year, matching the 1966 toll, but an increase in travel resulted in a lower death rate for distance covered.

In announcing this today, Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said, "these 1967 traffic statistics support our conviction that the traffic loss of lives and dollars on the highways is an unnecessary expense that the nation can control."

The cost of the 1967 accidents was estimated at $11 billion. Deaths in December totaled 5,210, up 3 per cent from the 5,040 killed in December 1966. The 1967 rate was 5.5 fatalities per 100 million vehicle miles, a 4 per cent decrease from the 1966 rate of 5.7 deaths. The record low of 5.2 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles was set in 1961. In 1957 the rate was 6.1. Mileage traveled in 1967 rose to 970 billion from 930.5 billion in 1966, an increase of 4 per cent.

The council estimated that traffic accidents caused 1.9 million disabling injuries last year in addition to the deaths.

Of the $11 billion economic loss, 3.5 billion came from damaged and destroyed property and the remainder from wage losses, medical expenses and overhead cost of insurance.

There were 103 million registered drivers at the end of 1967 and 100 million registered vehicles.

Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Things to yawn about: 53 boys were suspended from a Norwalk, Conn., high school because their hair was too long and distracting to their classmates. Some parents were pleased, some were indignant. There is no report on how many classmates were distracted. Pictures of four of the boys showed less hair in their eyes than a respectable sheep dog and to date nobody has sent him away from school. At about the same time a 17-year-old girl wearing slacks to school in the recent cold weather was made to sit in the principal's office all day because of her attire.

In both cases the school officials sound a little on the defensive as a result of their disciplinary actions. Well they might. A girl in slacks is twice as dressed as a girl in a mini skirt. In 1874 two little girls were sent home from school because they had had their hair bobbed! Girls used to show white ruffled drawers beneath the hems of their skirts. A girl dressed in this way today would sit in the principal's office for a week.

Censorship applies not only to fashion. Thousands of copies of the book review magazine Book World, published by the Chicago Tribune, were recalled because the leading review did not "conform to the norms of good taste we demand for our readers."

The review contained an anatomical term, not unfamiliar. The book reviewed was "The Naked Ape" by Desmond Morris. Mr. Morris's book has already sold 50,000 copies in Great Britain. He expects to make so much money out of it that he is moving to Malta to avoid high taxes. Incidentally, our family's copy of Book World, sent by mail, contained the offending review. Perhaps we should alert the Post Office.

And finally, as an example of the injustice of the world, second only to that done to hirsute students deprived of their education, a lawsuit brought by an airline stewardess was decided in favor of the company. The young lady was dismissed from her job not because of race, creed, color, or national origin but because she had reached her 32nd birthday. The Appellate Division of the New York court said this was permissible. If the stewardess had been in the age group 40-65 she would have been able to plead discrimination under the law. Not having reached 40, she had no remedy.

Bridal Shower Held For Louise Sperl

A surprise bridal shower was given for Louise Sperl Saturday, Jan. 20, at the Centerville Church hall. Hostesses were Charlotte Sperl and Florence Tompkins.

Those who attended were the Mmes. Floyd Mower Sr., Floyd Mower Jr., Vincent Wynkoop, Walter Hunz, Gertrude Sloboda, Ernest Anderson, Leonard Sperl Sr., LeRoy Longendyke, Woodrow Sperl, William Sperl, Robert Sperl, Carlton Sperl, Arthur Sperl Sr., Helen Dederick,

MRS. PAUL T. LEIGHTENHIMER (Lakeside Studio)

Nuptials Announced

Miss Irene Ann Sahler, River Road, Ulster Park, daughter of Mrs. Marion Sahler and the late Jason Sahler, became the bride of Pvt. Paul Terry Leightenheimer, Fort Jackson, S.C., son of the late Mrs. Helen Leightenheimer, on Saturday, Feb. 3, at 11 a.m. at Port Ewen Reformed Church.

The Rev. Daniel Ogden officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. G. Clark, Port Ewen, provided traditional wedding selections. White gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her brother, Terry Sahler, Rockaway, N.J., the bride wore a ballerina length bouffant gown of sheer fabric over taffeta, fashioned with a lace bodice, scoop neckline and long tapered lace sleeves. A full skirt was attached to a fitted waistline and featured sequin trim. A queen's crown of pearls was secured to an illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and white gladioli tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Diane Freese, Ulster Park, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length coat and dress ensemble consisting of an olive green brocade coat over a bone white crepe dress. A bone white leaf cap secured to a short flirtation veil served as her headpiece and she carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow pompons tied with yellow satin ribbons.

Miss Barbara Krom, Hillside Terrace, Kingston, served as bridesmaid for her cousin. She wore an ensemble fashioned identically to that of the bride. Her headpiece was olive color and she carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow pompons tied with yellow satin ribbons.

Phillip Sahler, Rockaway, N.J., sister of the bride, was best man. Edwin Krom, Kingston, uncle of the bride, was usher.

After the wedding a reception for 52 guests was given at the Capri "400," Port Ewen.

For her wedding trip to South Carolina, the bride wore a beige shift dress.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and attended Ulster County Community College.

Her husband is serving in the U.S. Army, stationed at Fort Jackson, S.C., where the couple will reside.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My husband is the only child of a divorced mother, aged 72. She makes every holiday season into a nightmare for him. If we make any plans which don't include her, he is told that all she lives for is him and that her loneliness on a holiday shames her in front of her neighbors. We no longer get to her house than she wants to know when we're coming again. She upsets him so . . .

ANSWER: Her reproaches are not the problem. The problem is your husband's susceptibility to them.

In my opinion, the only person who could pull him out of it is a good psychoanalyst. For what a good psychoanalyst would do would be to tap your husband's memories of his many, many hopeful childhood efforts to please his mother, efforts which ended in the same agonized failures they still end in.

The child of parental voracity like this will be able to recall some of those failures on his own. But the most painful ones he won't recall without professional help, which is why the help is needed. It's needed because ALL those memories of agonized failure are needed to finally convince him that any effort to please an unpleasable parent is as doomed to defeat in the present as it was in the past.

Morally speaking, your husband's problem is egotism. Sure it is. There are people in this world whom nothing and nobody can satisfy. They are slaves who must at once empty themselves of appreciation of what has been received in order to recover emptiness, that discontent by which they live and which entitles them to blame other people for it.

Your husband needs better support than my statements to relinquish all hope of pleasing his unpleasable mother. He needs a humility of his own to say to himself, "O.K. I am licked. It is beyond my power to please my mother. So I now quit trying to. And settle for merely doing my duty by her."

Then he'd be free. He could listen to her reproaches with the same self-possession as one listens to the radio static involved with satellites' messages from Mars. They'd just be part of the deal—noises he expected to hear.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: I discovered the fabric glue that are sold for quick mending work magic for the dressmaker! A little goes a long way and dries fast when used according to directions.

Using this fabric glue I can position my material and avoid practically all pinning and basting. By adjusting the material just so—while the glue is still wet—I get a most professional job which only takes minutes. It's great for seams and facings. If the glue sets too quickly I simply warm it with an iron, rather than rip the material by pulling. The fabric then comes apart easily and can be re-done.

Of course, the sewing machine still needs to be used, but some places like the hem of a lining are much better looking if just glued.

Mrs. E. H. Schell

I've used it for years for mending and hemming raincoats, etc., but never thought about your idea before. You're a doll.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Try soaking your hands and your feet once a week in a mixture of one-half baby oil and one-half warm water for a soft touch and soft walk.

Reader

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: I wear a "fall" and when anyone asks me if it's all my hair I just say, "Yes it is, I paid for it!"

Ruby Eller

Dear Heloise: If you have a small corned beef leftover, but not really enough for a meal, try this:

Grind it with two large raw potatoes, onion, celery and two slices of rye bread. Season, add one raw egg and mix well.

This will make four or five nice patties to fry and sure is a meal stretcher and budget saver.

Betty

Dear Heloise: When I iron long-sleeved shirts, I button the sleeves together underneath the ironing board to keep them off the floor. No soiled cuffs.

Elfreda Firth

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Deadline Noted For Masked Ball

Saturday, Feb. 10 is the deadline for reservations for the March 2nd masked ball at "Grasmere," in Rhinebeck. The formal ball which will feature original masks (it is not a masquerade—there will be no costumes) is for the purpose of raising funds for the Hudson Valley Repertory Theater in Woodstock. Guests will be enjoying an evening in one of the beautiful old homes of the Hudson Valley, an evening which will include a midnight buffet.

The spring season of the Repertory Theater opens in April with a production of Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night." In order for the second season of the theater to be a success, and for the theater to continue giving the high quality productions of last year, support from theater lovers in the Hudson Valley is needed. This March 2nd ball should bring pleasure to at least 250 people, and at the same time mark the beginning of a successful Repertory Theater in the area.

Anyone wishing further information about the ball may contact Mrs. David Gerbarg in Kingston.

DOCTORS WORK TO PREVENT ARTERIOSCLEROSIS PROGRESS

Q—A friend died with arteriosclerotic CV disease. What is this and how does it affect a person?

A—Arteriosclerotic cerebrovascular disease is hardening of the arteries in the brain. The manifestations vary with the severity of the lesion and the part of the brain involved.

Q—What is generalized arteriosclerosis? How should it be treated?

A—Generalized arteriosclerosis is hardening of the arteries throughout the body. The only treatment is to prevent its progress through avoidance of (1) excessive cigarette smoking, (2) obesity, (3) high blood pressure and (4) a high-cholesterol diet. Regular exercise is also important.

Q—X rays of a relative who is 65 show calcium deposits in his aorta. Can anything be done for this?

A—The deposits cannot be dissolved. Surgical removal is sometimes possible. For ways to prevent further progress of this disease, see preceding question.

Q—Is nicotinic acid useful in the treatment of arteriosclerosis?

A—Only insofar as it helps to reduce the blood cholesterol level when it is given in large doses.

Q—Will fat in the blood cause hardening of the arteries?

A—If the concentration is abnormally high this could be a causative factor.

Q—My doctor says I have hardening of the arteries. My blood cholesterol is 389. Is this serious?

A—The normal level is 160 to 230, but for safety's sake you should try to keep it under 210.

Q—My doctor says I have periarthritis nodosa and that there is no cure for it. He says I should take cortisone for the rest of my life. What do you think?

A—Periarthritis (or polyarthritis) nodosa may affect the smaller arteries anywhere in the body. Sometimes the disease clears up spontaneously after several years. One of the cortisone-like drugs is the only treatment that offers the victim any hope of relief.

Q—Could palpitation be caused by drugs given to lower the blood pressure?

A—No. They should reduce your palpitation, not aggravate it.

Miss Spada Chosen 'Miss Hope — 1968' By Dutchess County Cancer Unit

Miss Theresa Spada, Poughkeepsie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Spada of Glasco, was chosen "Miss Hope-1968" of Dutchess County recently by the American Cancer Society. Miss Spada, a graduate of Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, Class of 1963, is now employed as a head nurse at St. Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Miss Spada will represent Dutchess County in the statewide competition in Buffalo on March 21. She was feted at a luncheon at the Poughkeepsie Inn for the directors of the cancer unit, Edward C. Scheuler, supervisor, Town of Poughkeepsie, was master of ceremonies for the judging program.

Miss Nancy Davis of Saugerties, was the recent selection as "Miss Hope-1968" for Ulster County.

Judges for the Dutchess contest, in which applicants were judged on personality, intelligence, beauty and a speech on "The Nurse and Some Phase of the Cancer Problem," were Mrs. Ralph F. Stott, the Rev. Gordon L. Kidd and Herbert J. Haigh.

Miss Spada's comments in essence were: "My primary concern as a nurse is not the radical surgery that most cancer patients undergo but rather, the rehabilitation that follows. I can't offer my patients a miracle drug or a dramatic cure. I can only try to motivate the mind readjusting their lives."

"The nurse assumes many roles in the rehabilitation program. Probably her most significant achievement is evaluating the patient's reactions to the disease and the surgery. When this is accomplished correctly then strategic moves can be made to help the patient to readjust to society."

In conclusion she said, "I sometimes feel very inadequate

Youth of 5 Churches Gather for Services

Responsibilities will be the theme of the worship service to be conducted Sunday at Christ's Lutheran Church. Under the leadership of Jeff Vredenburg, those participating in the service will be the youth of the Senior High Christian Youth Group of Woodstock.

This group is composed of young people from Christ's Lutheran Church, the Overlook Methodist Church, West Hurley Methodist Church and the Woodstock Reformed Church. Special music for this service will be presented by Tina Anderson, Steve Bryant and Sharon Schulz. Advisors to the group are Mr. and Mrs. David Sullivan of Woodstock.

A week from this Sunday the same service will be given at the Woodstock Reformed Church.

More than 125 persons attended a farewell reception given by the congregation of Christ's Lutheran Church for Pastor Norman Krapf and his family last Sunday. Pastor Krapf and his family will be leaving Woodstock during the last week of February.

Joe McNelis, president of the Woodstock Democratic Club, today announced that the membership drive for the current year is now underway.

"The executive committee of the club are now planning and scheduling what we hope will be an informative, interesting and productive program of events for the year, both social and political," he said.

"Although we Democrats have historically been the underdog here in Woodstock, we are each year improving our showing at the polls. With vigorous backing we shall, in time, return to a two-party system locally."

Many area Democrats have received letters inviting them to become members of the club and take part in the 1968 activities. Any who have not received the letters are nevertheless welcome to join.

Annual dues are payable to Joseph P. Lester, treasurer, Simmons Drive.

Drug Addict Center Destroyed by Fire

Synanon Foundation was closing its facility in Ontario Park, Tannersville, because the operating expenses were too high, and on Wednesday the 22-room private rehabilitation center for drug addicts, was totally destroyed by fire of undetermined origin.

The property, formerly the estate of Nettie Sargent, was given to Synanon Foundation about a year ago by the owner.

Fire was discovered on the third floor of the building yesterday and when Tannersville fire units in command of Chief William Reich Jr., arrived at the scene they found flames breaking through the outer walls. Fire companies from Hunter, Haines Falls and East Jewett were dispatched to the Foundation property to assist, but firemen were hampered by the lack of water.

Firemen shuttled water from distant points in tank trucks and despite the efforts of the combined forces of firefighters the large structure burned to the ground and today only two chimneys were standing in the midst of the smoldering rubble.

Ted Sondergard, manager, his wife and two children, reside in another building on the property. Their home was not involved in the blaze, the origin of which was investigated by Leeds State Police.

KBA Team Entry Past 135 Mark

Team entries for the Kingston Bowling Association's annual tournament have passed 135 mark but are lagging in singles and doubles. Tournament Secretary Joseph Mannello has announced.

Deadline for filing entries is Friday, Feb. 9, at midnight. Mannello cautioned. He said KBA officials hope for a last minute rush that would send team entries near or past the 170 of 1967. First place in the team handicap event pays $1,000.

Last year, there were 141 double entries with an automatic 282 singles. At this point the response is only slightly better than half last year's total.

Mannello stressed that $100 first prizes will be awarded for singles and all events and $200 for doubles.

Reporting on the squad situation, Mannello said all Sunday squads are filled except the 10:30 a. m. The 8:30 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 17, shift is filled. However there are ample openings on the 17th at 1 p. m. and 3:30 p. m.

In the minor events, the following weekend at Ferraro's Bowlerama, Sunday 2:30 p. m. is closed and the 4:30 squad is rapidly approaching capacity.

Ulster Senators Wreck OCCC Mid-Hudson Bid, 105-85

Orange County Community College came to town last night hoping to (1) defeat or press Ulster Community and (2) build up their chances for an invitation to the NJCAA Region XV Tournament at Trenton in March.

They accomplished neither goal and now will have to spend some time at the telephone waiting for the call that may or may not come in.

Nineteenth Win

It was the 19th win in 21 games for UCC which moved steadily away from Orange after nine minutes of the first half. The win boosted the unbeaten Senators (in Mid-Hudson play) to a two-game lead over Sullivan County which was upended by Rockland last night, 70-65, at Rockland.

Team	W	L
Ulster	19	2
Sullivan	18	3
Orange	17	4

Uhl hit on 18 of 29 tries from the field and was 7/10 at the foul line for his 43 points—four off his all-time UCC record and seventh time he has soared over the "40" mark this season.

Uhl drew his fourth foul with 14:27 left to play but survived until with 1:05 remaining he left the game because of a slight ankle injury. It was not serious and he will be at practice today.

Horne Sparkles

Leon Hanna with 14 points and another fine rebounding effort and sparkling play by substitute Frank Horne were other UCC highlights.

OCCC's sharpshooting Mike

Cusato led his squad as expected with 27 points. He garnered 16 in the first half but Hanna and Frank Roselli combined to blank him for 15 straight minutes. He picked up several points late in the game against UCC's relaxed defenses.

Jim Burns, the OCCC runner-up with 23 points, proved to be a superb outside shooter, bagging most of his points from 20 to 25 feet out.

At 9:30 into the first half, it was still a reasonably close game with Ulster leading 22-18.

Two Roselli layups, both after steals and a shot by Bill Zilliox widened the gap to 28-18. The Orangemen were never closer than 10 after that and most of the time it was 25 points or more. UCC led 52-36 at half-time.

Rod Chando contributed 14 points for Ulster, Zilliox 11 and Roselli 12. Zilliox fouled out the 3-minute mark and Hanna with 4:10 remaining.

Ulster hosts Long Island CC Saturday night at the audi-

One Leads, One Recovers

Peggy and Billy Send Olympic Hopes Soaring

By MORRIS ROSENBERG
Associated Press Writer
GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Peggy Fleming's non-stop charge toward a figure skating gold medal and skier Billy Kidd's rapid recovery from an alarming ankle injury sent U.S. hopes soaring again today at the 10th Winter Olympics.

Seyfert on the third figure, a "double paragraph forward three," and shot further ahead on the fourth, a "forward paragraph loop" regarded as one of the most difficult in the sport.

Austria's Beatrix Schuba remained third, but fourth-place Albertina Hoyes, 19, of Arlington, Mass., had closed the gap from 10 points to 1.3 with brilliant tracings on the fourth figure.

Miss Fleming had a total of 823.3 points, Miss Seyfert 756.3, Miss Schuba 736.8 and Albertina 735.5 after the fourth figure.

Miss Fleming received the highest marks from all nine judges on the third figure and got the best rating from all but one — Miss M. Phillips of Britain — on the fourth.

The British judge gave Miss Noyes a higher score than Peggy on the fourth figure.

Skittish weather conditions, however, continued to plague the Games, forcing postponement of the men's downhill race and opening heats in men's and women's luge competition.

Miss Fleming, a poised, 19-year-old beauty from Colorado Springs, Colo., took a runaway, 67-point lead over Gabriele Seyfert of East Germany with four of five compulsory figures completed at the Stade de Glace.

Barring a collapse in the final school figure, the raven-haired world champion will carry a near insurmountable edge into Saturday's free-skating finale, which counts 40 per cent of the total score.

Kidd, the Stowe, Vt., flash who figures to be America's top medal candidate in the Alpine tests, announced he would start in the downhill race after being virtually counted out because of a sprained left ankle suffered during Wednesday's practice run.

Kidd Confident

"I feel okay. I will go in the race," Kidd said about an hour before the scheduled start of the Games' initial Alpine test, which was washed out by snowfall, high winds and fog.

The first starter, Guy Perillat of France, was at the starting spot when Marc Hodler, president of the International Ski Federation, announced the postponement. Race officials will decide later today on a new date.

At Villard-de-Lans, unseasonably mild weather forced postponement of the first two heats in the luge singles. Temperatures hovering around 39 degrees made the ice track too soft, and light snow further impaired the task of keeping the track in condition.

Luge officials also were to meet later today to decide whether the first two of four singles runs could be staged to night. Two-man bobsled heats, postponed Wednesday night because of bad weather, also were to be run tonight at Alpe d'Huez.

Has 30-Point Lead

Miss Fleming, the favorite to give the U.S. its first gold medal in ladies' figure skating since the 1956 Games, built a 30-point lead in the first two compulsory figures Wednesday and pulled steadily away on her third and fourth figures today.

Skating with easy assurance, she gained 18 points on Miss

Hockey Hopes Fade After U.S. Injury

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer
GRENOBLE, France (AP)—An Italian pulled off one of the biggest upsets in Olympic history in cross-country skiing, but any such prospects for the U.S. hockey team have faded after three losses—two in the standings and one in the hospital.

The U.S. team, which must meet heavily-favored Russia on Friday, had nursed some hopes of winning a surprise medal until Craig Falkman suffered a severe leg sprain and slight dislocation, and the Americans fell to Sweden 4-3 Wednesday without him.

The U.S. lost to Czechoslovakia 5-1 on Tuesday.

Coach Chagrined

"It hurt us," said U.S. Coach Murray Williamson. "He was playing great and we were forced to use a defenseman in the attack. Falkman will not play again in these Olympics and we will miss him."

Falkman, a 24-year-old salesman from Golden Valley, Minn., had scored once and assisted on a goal by Len Liljohm of St. Paul, Minn., as the Americans led 2-1. Then the veteran slipped and crashed against the boards while chasing an icing puck.

Williamson and Swedish Coach Arne Stromberg sharply criticized the Canadian referees.

"The referees sure had quick whistles around the creases," U.S. defenseman Doug Volmar said. "The Canadians usually complain about quick whistles in European play, and then it is a Canadian who calls it against us."

To Change Strategy

With an 0-2 record and without Falkman, Williamson planned a revision in U.S. play, saying European teams have trouble with the heavy body

The Gilligan Strategy - It Pays Off

By MIKE HELFNER
Freeman Sports Staff

Kingston High School has completed nearly three-fourths of its basketball schedule (13 of 18 games), and having compiled an outstanding 12-1 mark, KHS fans would think mentor Jack Gilligan had been following every coaching rule in the book.

Gilligan, to many KHS boosters' amazement, has not followed the script, at least in one important sense.

Most coaches like to build a solid, unified starting unit, but Gilligan, in each of the 13 contests, has named only four starters prior to game time, and alternated the fifth slot between a trio of performers.

Gilligan may have a job on his hands denying one of the announced fifth-slot for Friday night's clash with Middletown.

Ed Byman, a 5-foot-10 guard has performed with distinction in the Maroon's last two league games, and there are fans who think Byman deserves a shot off those recent performances.

Byman rounded out a balanced scoring attack against Monticello Tuesday night and canned 11 points, with four coming at extremely key points. In the previous league encounter, Byman netted 10 against Port Jervis, and the game before that he clicked for a like total against Lourdes, a non-league foe.

Ken Gilligan, the one announced starting guard, is a classy little operator, and KHS fans admired how nicely Byman's style matched Ken's and the rest of the starting unit, composed of center Ray Lindhorst and forwards A. J. (Andy) Murphy and Bruce Gilligan.

Coach Gilligan's master plan has been to designate a fifth starter as fits the opposition, holding Byman out in favor of taller Werner Kohn or Ted Wood when the Maroon face teams with great height. Against smaller teams, Byman gets the nod over the two bigger men.

The Middies generally like to run, and they tried that against the Maroon in the teams first meeting, with Middletown coming out on the short end of a humiliating 105-70 defeat before the Blue and White's home fans.

The Middie attack has been hampered by the loss of Darryl Stevens, a fleet guard who had little difficulty getting through a press.

Stevens Out

Stevens has missed more than a month now, having torn some ligaments in one knee. Without him, the Middie attack has suffered from lack of scoring, as his replacement, Chuck Smith, is not known as a shooter. Stevens will not play Friday.

Coach Gilligan could take advantage of the absence of Stevens by inserting Byman, thus applying pressure on the less-experienced Smith, and possibly adding additional effectiveness to the already-devastating KHS press.

Two other league games are on tap, with Port Jervis, already out of the race, meeting the currently holds down second place.

The other game is in the DUSO Village League, where the Monties, who have already clinched the crown, host Ellenville, battling to capture second place. An upset win by the Ellies would deadlock them for second with idle Liberty. Liberty is 4-3, and dropped its season opener to the Ellies in Liberty, but turned around and reversed that at Ellenville.

KHS Skiers Capture Triangular Meet

Reynolds Is 2nd in Field

Kingston High School skiers took over the DUSO ski championship competition lead with an impressive victory in a triangular meet against Liberty and Fallsburgh Wednesday at the Davos Ski Center in Woodridge.

Led by Bruce Reynolds's second place finish, Coach Dick Schaefer's Maroons had a best-five time of 211.2 seconds. Liberty was second with 213.1 and Fallsburgh third with a 215.0 clocking.

The win gave Kingston an 8-2 record for the season.

Fastest time for the meet was turned in by Dave Zamanski of Liberty with 37.9 seconds. Reynolds was second at 38.8 seconds, followed by Jeff Zeinger of Fallsburgh and Boyet of Kingston.

The 17-gate giant slalom course was set up by Peter Martini, director of Davos' Ski School. Course conditions were icy, as they have been most of this season due to lack of steady snow.

Kingston girls raced for practice when other schools were unable to field a team.

The KHS skiers climax their highly successful first varsity season under Coach Schaefer when they compete in the Section Nine tournament at Belleayre Saturday.

Members of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County will receive a significant committee report at their next meeting. And, predictably, it will leave little doubt as to where the Federation stands on the question of certain types of gun control legislation.

The report is signed by five members of the Federation's legislative committee, who attended a special session of the New York State Conservation Council at Ulster. The group included Richard McDole of Wawarsing, chairman; William J. Meyer, Federation chairman; Arthur Sperl, Carleton B. King and Richard Whalen, recording secretary.

THE FEDERATION has consistently favored, and still does, heavier penalties for crimes committed with firearms. But it is unalterably opposed to the registration of rifles and shotguns in the guise of crime control.

Federation delegates, after studying "The Hughes Report—a report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Crime, Its Causes, Control and Effect on Society" came to the conclusion that the legislative committee had done an outstanding job on research.

But, the local committee also concluded: the report proves convincingly that the registration of firearms has little, if any, influence on crime prevention.

The Federation is obtaining several copies of the report to make sure its members are thoroughly acquainted with all angles of this controversial subject.

It will be startling evidence for some of those bleeding hearts who seem to think that depriving the honest citizen of the right to own firearms will of itself prevent the felon from using firearms in the commission of a crime.

They also urge that all individuals who may want to read this report should contact their legislators in Albany at once.

THE DELEGATES HEARD some of the best informed people in the state, including William Brescia of the New York State Police, tell them that any gun bills, sponsored by DSP, were aimed at stiffer penalties for crimes committed with guns and NOT at gun registration.

Brescia also insisted that the so-called Governors Bill was very restrictive, very costly and quite similar to the Sullivan Law, now supposed to control hand guns, and now admitted by police and many district attorneys to be of little use in crime prevention.

The DSP official went a step further: He compared the bill with the Prohibition amendment which, as everyone knows, generated only lack of respect for law and order. And it would probably cost at least six million dollars to set up and, again, it would not prevent crime!

THE SPECIAL MEETING of the Conservation Council was hurriedly called when its president, Edmund Motette of Ticonderoga, was advised through the grapevine that it was up to the Council to come up with an alternative, if it did not agree with the governor's proposal.

Sensing this to be a diversion designed to divide the state's sportsmen and conservationists, the Council invited all the federations to participate in the Utica discussion.

The various county delegates reported on the extent of support they expected from their legislators and it was generally agreed that every legislator in Albany would be contacted.

THIS APPEARS TO BE a fight—and a purely political one—between upstate and the big cities, the Ulster report will say without reservation. Politics have seldom erupted into the open at a Council session as it did at this one. The governor was openly criticized and a resolution to support the stand of Sen. Brydges in opposition to the governor was passed unanimously. The delegates voted unanimously to oppose the Governor's Bill or any other gun registration bill in the guise of crime control.

Dick McDole, chairman of the Federation's legislative committee, proposed a constitutional amendment which likewise received the unanimous support of the delegates.

The amendment would guarantee to the citizens of New York State the same rights now employed by 35 other states in their constitution, namely, that the right to own and bear arms shall not be infringed.

The federations around the state are thoroughly aroused and the Governor's Bill faces tough sledding. As one delegate put it: Let's keep better tabs on criminals and leave the honest, law abiding citizen alone.

Marcus Key Player With Albany State

Larry Marcus, former All-Duso basketball player at Kingston, has played an important role as captain of the Albany State cage squad and has helped guide it to a 11-3 record this season.

Marcus, a 6-foot-2 200-pounder who starred for the Maroon during the dismal 62-63 and 63-64 seasons. The Maroon chalked up identical 9-9 records those years, finishing no higher than a tie for third. Marcus also played golf at KHS.

Dick Sauer, Great Danes coach, termed Marcus a steady factor on the squad and was instrumental in the Danes eight-game win that helped boost their team ranking.

A stickout as a frosh player, Marcus moved right along in Sauer's plans and averaged 11.8 points per game as a sophomore.

When last season was barely a fourth over, Marcus was injured in a collision under the basket against Marist College, and sat out the remainder of the season with a broken wrist. He still figured highly in Sauer's organizational scheme for the 1967-68 season and cracked into the starting five at the outset.

Marcus and his teammates meet Harpur College tonight and they will be shooting extra hard to win. A triumph would mark Sauer's 200th victory at the helm of the Danes.

A history major, Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marcus, 58 W. O'Reilly Street, Kingston, and is a member of the Potter Club fraternity.

Rosendale Nordic Juniors Capture Three Race Medals

While Rosendale Nordic Ski Club racers were idled on their home trails because of poor snow conditions, Rosendale juniors took to the road to compete in the Connecticut State Junior Championships and came home with three medals.

Patricia Mills of Stone Ridge and Susan Karlson of Rosendale, racing in the Junior I and II class for girls 14 through 17, took a second and third.

Bill Johnson of Stone Ridge took a second in the Junior Boys Class III, ages 12-13. Michael Tucker, Rosendale, was sixth and Bob Swelha of Rosendale, 15th in Junior Boys III.

Linda Coogan of Rosendale took a 4th in Junior Girls II. In the Junior III and IV (10 through 13), Susan Klaus, Rifton, was 4th, and Vivian Denington of High Falls, fifth.

Bob Thornton of Stone Ridge raced to a 9th place and John Mills, also of Stone Ridge, came in 11th in Junior Boys Class II, ages 14 and 15.

This weekend the Juniors invade Bear Mountain, while the senior cross country runners travel to Bohus, Vt., where the Swedish Ski Club is host to a full cross country program.

Racing for the Rosendale seniors will be Anthony Battelle, formerly of Allgerville, and Birger Visnes and Roy Selland, picked at center.

The In-Bounds Pass That Haunted Hawks

The St. Louis Hawks had the Boston Celtics right where they wanted them. At least, they thought they had.

There were six seconds left in the National Basketball Association game at Boston Wednesday night, and St. Louis had a 101-100 lead and the ball out of bounds.

But, the Hawks threw the in-bounds pass out of bounds and Boston took over. The Celtics set up Bailey Howell, and his shot went in at the buzzer for a 102-101 Boston victory.

In the first game of a double-header at Boston, Philadelphia trounced San Diego 125-103. New York edged the Bulls 114-111 at Baltimore in the only other NBA game.

In the American Basketball Association, Houston bombed Pittsburgh 133-112. Indiana nipped New Jersey 106-105, Denver topped Dallas 97-87 and New Orleans downed Oakland 111-107.

In the nightcap at Boston, the score was tied 97-97 with a minute to go when St. Louis' Len Wilkens sank four straight foul shots to put the Hawks in front 101-97.

John Havlicek then cut it to 101-98 on a foul shot and Larry Siegfried narrowed it to 101-100 with a basket.

Sam Jones scored 27 points for the Celtics, who stayed 3½ games behind first-place Philadelphia in the Eastern Division.

Hal Greer poured in 27 points and Wilt Chamberlain controlled the backboards as Philadelphia handed San Diego its 10th straight defeat. Don Kojis topped San Diego with 18 points.

New York took over late in the third quarter and fought off a closing Baltimore spurt for its victory. Walt Bellamy scored 32 points and grabbed 21 rebounds.

Pistol Pete Maravich Does It Again-49 Points

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

You could call Pistol Pete Maravich the Babe Ruth of college basketball.

He draws the fans to watch his fantastic shooting in much the same manner as the late Sultan of Swat did baseball fans when he was hitting home runs for the New York Yankees.

Whether his team wins or loses, the sophomore sensation for Louisiana State has been getting his average of 45 points per game with several bursts of 50 or more points.

Maravich did it again Wednesday night even though LSU lost on the road to Auburn 74-69. He threw in 49 points, including a streak of 25 in a row at the start of the second half, and set a Southeastern Conference season scoring record of 793 with eight games still to play.

An 'Average Game'

"It was just an average game," Maravich said after he had erased Bob Pettit's old SEC scoring mark. Pettit, former LSU All-American, tallied 785 points in 25 games during the 1954 season.

Maravich's 25 points in a row is believed to be a national collegiate record. In fact, he accounted for 31 of LSU's 37 points in the second half.

Maravich's heroics overshadowed the 72-71 squeaker sixth-ranked New Mexico scored over 10th-ranked New Mexico State in the only game involving teams in The Associated Press Top Ten.

Greg Howard's free throw in the closing seconds gave the Lobos the victory in the see-saw struggle on their home court at Albuquerque, N.M.

Tries to Egg Him

Howard, who had been thrown out of two games already this year, one last Saturday when Arizona ended New Mexico's 17-game winning streak, said the Aggies tried to get him mad by crowding him.

"I wasn't about to get thrown out of this game," Howard said later. "I just told the referee about it."

Ron Sanford, with 23 points paced the Lobos, who at one time led by nine points at 63-54 went on and Arbour skated to-

with six minutes left. The Aggies rallied to tie at 71-71 on Bob Evans' free throw with eight seconds on the clock before Howard was fouled and converted the winning point.

New Mexico's season record now is 18-1, New Mexico State 17-3.

Don May scored 21 points, including four straight baskets at the start of the second half, to pace Dayton to a 64-56 home court triumph over Xavier of Ohio.

Other Major Games

In other major games, all home court successes, Louisville edged Drake 67-66, Toledo drubbed Western Michigan 83-71, Navy downed Georgetown, D.C., 89-85 in overtime, Temple defeated St. John's of New York

62-55 and Iowa whipped Purdue 94-87 despite 31 points in a losing cause by Rick Mount.

Also Cincinnati took Wichita State 99-85, Marquette conquered Chicago Loyola 71-57, and Holy Cross vanquished Fordham 85-76 behind Ed Siudut's 36 points.

On the road, Marshall eked out a 69-68 victory over Miami of Ohio and Bowling Green whipped Ohio U. 78-68.

West Virginia overcame Georgia Tech 79-75 at Charleston, W.Va., while at Arlington, Va., George Washington beat Virginia Military 60-59 on Garland Pinkston's basket from the corner in the last two seconds.

Unbeaten Long Island, No. 1 in the AP small college poll, made it 15 in a row by edging Rider 55-52 at Trenton, N.J.

Puck, Puck Did It Really Go Into Net?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Small and elusive, a National Hockey League puck can be difficult to follow.

John McKenzie and the Boston Bruins were certain they had seen it go into the St. Louis net, Al Arbour and the St. Louis Blues would swear it didn't and referee Bob Sloan wasn't exactly sure.

It all happened in a wild third period ruckus during Boston's 6-4 victory over the Blues Wednesday night.

In other games, Montreal dropped Philadelphia 4-1, Chicago shaded Toronto 3-2, Pittsburgh turned back Oakland 4-1 and Minnesota overcame Los Angeles 4-2.

Ed Westfall's three-goal hat trick for the Bruins was overshadowed by the lengthy argument precipitated by McKenzie's goal.

The Boston right winger broke down the right side and shot from about 18 feet out. The puck apparently entered the St. Louis net and bounced out. As McKenzie raised his stick in the traditional salute to a goal, St. Louis defenseman Arbour skated off with the puck. The red line signifying a goal never went on and Arbour skated towards the Boston net and beat goalie Ed Johnston.

The Bruins' bench exploded and, led by Coach Harry Sinden, rushed Sloan and goal judge Rich Sweigert. Moments later, Sloan reversed the call, awarding the goal to McKenzie and disallowing Arbour's.

Now the Blues argued and Arbour and Barclay Plager wound up with 10-minute misconduct penalties. Plager also drew a game misconduct. St. Louis fans threw debris on the ice and it took 17 minutes before the game was resumed.

Members of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County will receive a significant committee report at their next meeting. And, predictably, it will leave little doubt as to where the Federation stands on the question of certain types of gun control legislation.

The report is signed by five members of the Federation's legislative committee, who attended a special session of the New York State Conservation Council at Utica. The group included Richard McDole of Wawarsing, chairman; William J. Meyer, Federation chairman; Arthur Sperl, Carleton B. King and Richard Whalen, recording secretary.

THE FEDERATION has consistently favored, and still does, heavier penalties for crimes committed with firearms. But it is unalterably opposed to the registration of rifles and shotguns in the guise of crime control. Federation delegates, after studying "The Hughes Report—a report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Crime, Its Causes, Control and Effect on Society" came to the conclusion that the legislative committee had done an outstanding job on research.

But, the local committee also concluded: the report proves convincingly that the registration of firearms has little, if any, influence on crime prevention.

The Federation is obtaining several copies of the report to make sure its members are thoroughly acquainted with all angles of this controversial subject.

It will be startling evidence for some of those bleeding hearts who seem to think that depriving the honest citizen of the right to own firearms will of itself prevent the felon from using firearms in the commission of a crime.

They also urge that all individuals who may want to read this report should contact their legislators in Albany at once.

THE DELEGATES HEARD some of the best informed people in the state, including William Brescia of the New York State Police, tell them that any gun bills, sponsored by DSP, were aimed at stiffer penalties for crimes committed with guns and NOT at gun registration. Brescia also insisted that the so-called Governors Bill was very restrictive, very costly and quite similar to the Sullivan Law, now supposed to control hand guns, and now admitted by police and many district attorneys to be of little use in crime prevention.

The DSP official went a step further: He compared the bill with the Prohibition amendment which, as everyone knows, generated only lack of respect for law and order. And it would probably cost at least six million dollars to set up and, again, it would not prevent crime!

THE SPECIAL MEETING of the Conservation Council was hurriedly called when its president, Edmund Motette of Ticonderoga, was advised through the grapevine that it was up to the Council to come up with an alternative, if it did not agree with the governor's proposal.

Sensing this to be a diversion designed to divide the state's sportsmen and conservationists, the Council invited all the federations to participate in the Utica discussion.

The various county delegates reported on the extent of support they expected from their legislators and it was generally agreed that every legislator in Albany would be contacted.

THIS APPEARS TO BE a fight—and a purely political one—between upstate and the big cities, the Ulster report will say without reservation. Politics have seldom erupted into the open at a Council session as it did at this one. The governor was openly criticized and a resolution to support the stand of Sen. Brydges in opposition to the governor was passed unanimously. The delegates voted unanimously to oppose the Governor's Bill or any other gun registration bill in the guise of crime control.

Dick McDole, chairman of the Federation's legislative committee, proposed a constitutional amendment which likewise received the unanimous support of the delegates.

The amendment would guarantee to the citizens of New York State the same rights now employed by 35 other states in their constitution, namely, that the right to own and bear arms shall not be infringed.

The federations around the state are thoroughly aroused and the Governor's Bill faces tough sledding. As one delegate put it: Let's keep better tabs on criminals and leave the honest, law abiding citizen alone.

Marcus Key Player With Albany State

Larry Marcus, former All-Duso basketball player at Kingston, has played an important role as captain of the Albany State cage squad and has helped guide it to a 11-3 record this season.

Marcus, a 6-foot-2 200-pounder who starred for the Maroon during the dismal 62-63 and 63-64 seasons. The Maroon chalked up identical 9-9 records those years, finishing no higher than a tie for third. Marcus also played golf at KHS.

Dick Sauer, Great Danes coach, termed Marcus a steady factor on the squad and was instrumental in the Danes eight-game win that helped boost their team charting.

Marcus currently is third in rebounding with 88, second in foul shooting, 31.40 (77.5) and second in assists, having been credited with 22.

A stickout as a frosh player, Marcus moved right along in Sauer's plans and averaged 11.8 points per game as a sophomore.

When last season was barely a fourth over, Marcus was injured in a collision under the basket against Marist College, and sat out the remainder of the season with a broken wrist.

He still figured highly in Sauer's organizational scheme for the 1967-68 season and Maravich did it again Wednesday night even though LSU lost on the road to Auburn 74-69. He threw in 49 points, including a streak of 25 in a row at the start of the second half, and set a Southeastern Conference season scoring record of 793 with eight games still to play.

An 'Average Game'

"It was just an average game," Maravich said after he had erased Bob Pettit's old SEC scoring mark. Pettit, former LSU All-American, tallied 785 points in 25 games during the 1954 season.

Maravich's 25 points in a row is believed to be a national collegiate record. In fact, he accounted for 31 of LSU's 37 points in the second half.

Maravich's heroics overshadowed the 72-71 squeaker sixth-ranked New Mexico scored over 10th-ranked New Mexico State in the only game involving teams in The Associated Press Top Ten.

Greg Howard's free throw in the closing seconds gave the Lobos the victory in the see-saw struggle on their home court at Albuquerque, N.M.

Tries to Egg Him

Howard, who had been thrown out of two games already this year, one last Saturday when Arizona ended New Mexico's 17-game winning streak, said the Aggies tried to get him mad by crowding him.

"I wasn't about to get thrown out of this game," Howard said later. "I just told the referee about it."

Ron Sanford, with 23 points paced the Lobos, who at one time led by nine points at 63-54

with six minutes left. The Aggies rallied to tie at 71-71 on Bob Evans' free throw with eight seconds on the clock before Howard was fouled and converted the winning point.

New Mexico's season record now is 18-1, New Mexico State 17-3.

Don May scored 21 points, including four straight baskets at the start of the second half, to pace Dayton to a 64-56 home court triumph over Xavier of Ohio.

Other Major Games

In other major games, all home court successes, Louisville edged Drake 67-66, Toledo drubbed Western Michigan 83-71, Navy downed Georgetown, D.C., 89-85 in overtime, Temple defeated St. John's of New York

62-55 and Iowa whipped Purdue 94-87 despite 31 points in a losing cause by Rick Mount.

Also Cincinnati took Wichita State 99-85, Marquette conquered Chicago Loyola 71-57, and Holy Cross vanquished Fordham 85-76 behind Ed Siudul's 36 points.

On the road, Marshall eked out a 69-68 victory over Miami of Ohio and Bowling Green whipped Ohio U. 78-68.

West Virginia overcame Georgia Tech 79-75 at Charleston, W.Va., while at Arlington, Va., George Washington beat Virginia Military 60-59 on Garland Pinkston's basket from the corner in the last two seconds.

Unbeaten Long Island, No. 1 in The AP small college poll, made it 15 in a row by edging Rider 55-52 at Trenton, N.J.

wards the Boston net and beat goalie Ed Johnston.

The Bruins' bench exploded and, led by Coach Harry Sinden, rushed Sloan and goal judge Rich Sweigel. Moments later, Sloan reversed the call, awarding the goal to McKenzie and disallowing Arbour's.

Now the Blues argued and Arbour and Barclay Plager wound up with 10-minute misconduct penalties. Plager also drew a game misconduct. St. Louis fans threw debris on the ice and it took 17 minutes before the game was resumed.

Young Dems Organize; Set Aims, Policy

The Young Democrats' Organization of Ulster County was officially formed Saturday night. The order of business included a broad outline of organization policy, the election of officers, and the adoption of a constitution.

The new group, although politically independent from the regular county organization, will attempt to work hand in hand with all Ulster County Democrats to obtain a more realistic alignment of political power on all county and town legislative bodies.

The Young Democrats will make an attempt to stimulate in young people an active interest in national and local governmental affairs, and to illuminate and perpetuate the ideals and principles of the Democratic Party.

Far from being solely a political organization, the group wishes to be involved in community service and social affairs.

Officers elected were John Frankie, West Shokan, chairman; Paul Gardner, New Paltz, first vice chairman; Mrs. Patricia Tosi, Kingston, second vice chairman; Steve Krosner, West Hurley, treasurer.

Executive committee members elected were Lewis Klein, Donald Gregory of Kingston and John Parete of Boiceville.

Wallace to Run For President

WASHINGTON (AP) — George C. Wallace will announce today he'll run for president on a third-party ticket.

The former Alabama governor has scheduled a Washington news conference to reveal what aides termed "his intentions regarding the 1968 presidential campaign."

Four years ago, Wallace withdrew as a presidential candidate after the Republicans nominated then Sen. Barry Goldwater for president. At the time, Wallace said this showed his message of states rights had been heeded.

Since then, he has repeatedly threatened to run, saying "there's not a dime's worth of difference" in the leadership of the Democratic and Republican parties.

He has said a third-party challenge would "show both parties that they can either give us a choice or we're going to run and hurt them both."

Wallace, 48, arrived in the capital by chartered plane Wednesday night.

A former state court judge, Wallace served as Alabama governor from 1963 to 1967. Ineligible to seek re-election, he failed in an effort to amend the state constitution but his wife Lurleen, was overwhelmingly elected to the post.

Wallace's candidacy, plus the possibility that antiwar Democrats may field their own party next fall, has raised the possibility that neither major party candidate will receive a majority next Nov. 5 and that the election will be thrown into the Leeds State Police reported Bruce A. Morgan, 24, of Main Street, Locke, Cayuga County, was backing a tractor-trailer from a private driveway onto the main highway and Albin Milewski, 57, of Route 10, South Kortright, was driving a truck east on Rt. 145 when the vehicles collided.

Trooper W. T. Fitzmaurice cited Morgan for backing unsafely. The summons is returnable Friday before Durham Town Justice Timothy Conway.

Liddy Speaks On Narcotics

Gordon Liddy, Republican candidate for Congress, Wednesday told faculty members at Haviland Junior High School in Hyde Park that "...the use of marijuana was systematic of the breakdown for respect of law and order."

Liddy, assistant district attorney to Dutchess County and a former FBI agent, said, "I attribute this in part to the fact that there is an increasing tendency by government agencies and the judiciary to excuse drug abuses on the basis of environmental factors."

Touching closer to home, Liddy, the father of five himself, noted that recent arrests in Roosevelt High School illustrated the seriousness of the problem. He stated that a greater involvement among the young with narcotics resulted from the greater availability of certain drugs and a general disintegration of parental discipline.

Liddy added that most drugs arrived in Dutchess County from New York City. He said very few were manufactured or grown within the area.

Liddy is a declared candidate for the 28th Congressional seat presently held by Democrat Joseph Y. Resnick.

Nearing 65? Check With SS Official

All Ulster County residents approaching their 65th birthday are urged to visit their local social security district office approximately three months before their 65th birthday, George J. Habernig, social security district manager in Kingston, announced today.

He said that 120,000 Americans reach 65 each month. He estimated that 80 of these live in the Ulster County area, and "are vitally affected by the medical care enrollment provisions."

According to Habernig, the enrollment period for signing up for doctor bill insurance is a seven-month period spanning three months before the month in which age 65 occurs through three months after the 65th birthday month. However, he warned, persons will have medical insurance coverage effective at the earliest possible month (65th birthday month) only if they sign up in one of the three months before the month of their birthday. Those signing up in the month of their 65th birthday or in one of the following three months will not be protected for one to three months after they enroll.

It is not necessary to retire in order to enroll in the medical program, Habernig emphasized. However, he said, an application is a necessity. He said that many persons nearing age 65 are continuing to work and are therefore not getting in touch with their local social security district offices. Their failure to enroll for doctor bill insurance during the seven-month enrollment period means that they will not have another opportunity until the first three months of the next year. In addition, there may be a higher premium than the present $4 monthly and coverage would not begin until the following July 1.

Some may find in added bonus by an early social security contact, he noted. Even though they may still be working full time, some cash benefits may be payable because of the more liberal rules regarding the amount they may earn and still receive partial social security cash benefits.

If any other persons are not able to visit their local social security office, Habernig urged that they start the application process by a letter or telephone call, without delay. The social security district office in Kingston is at 57 Albany Avenue. Office hours are Monday through Friday 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and on Thursday until 7 p. m.

Good Heart, Health Habits Encouraged

A program to encourage formation of good heart and health habits in childhood, with the view of reducing the risk of heart attack in later years, has been launched by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association in conjunction with their 1968 Heart Fund Drive.

Here is a thumbnail resume of what parents are asked to do:

Stress the importance of normal weight. Obesity often begins in youth.

Encourage children to keep physically fit through regular exercise.

Make doctor check-ups a family routine.

Owen R. Cheatham, national chairman of the 1968 Heart Fund Campaign, said the increased contributions from all segments of the public constituted a mandate for the American Heart Association to continue and expand its ceaseless fight against devastating cardiovascular illness.

"Diseases of the heart and blood vessels are the nation's number one killer, taking more than a million lives yearly, more than half of all causes of death combined. Additionally, more than 22 and a half million others in this land suffer from cardiovascular diseases, making these diseases the country's leading health menace," Cheatham pointed out. He added: "Great progress has been made in the fight against these dread ailments, especially since the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1949. Through ever-increasing public support over the years, the American Heart Association has been able to channel 133 million Heart Fund dollars into scientific research which has helped to save thousands of lives."

Criticism From Lane
CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — Dissent in the United States is being stifled "under the guise of national security," Mark Lane, a critic of the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, says.

As a result, Lane said Wednesday at St. Lawrence University, the "United States is becoming more and more of a closed society."

"It is unfortunate that the government has relegated many vital files on the assassination case to the national archives until the year 2039," Lane added.

TB Treatment
How to help people help themselves can be a sticky problem. But finding the answer, at least in one instance, can be worth a quarter of a billion dollars or a major part thereof.

That's the sum now being spent on hospitalization of patients with active tuberculosis. Dr. Thomas Moulding, a leading specialist in the field, recently noted in Medical Tribune. Many such patients are still confined to hospital for six to twelve months, although modern methods have largely removed the need for bed rest and isolation, and in most cases reduced the need for hospitalization.

Years ago TB patients could look forward to months or years in the hospital, but today many authorities believe that most patients need only a short period of hospitalization when treatment is started.

Anti-tuberculosis drugs, taken regularly, can render the patient noninfectious and put him on his feet in a short time. Continued drug treatment may be needed for as long as two years, but this can be done through an outpatient clinic.

"Then what's the problem?" "Unfortunately," Dr. Moulding points out, "a large number of patients take their medication irregularly or discontinue it when it is given on an outpatient basis. The patient who doesn't feel sick, or who has had a mild case to begin with, is tempted to neglect pill-taking and clinic visits."

Doctors, health departments and clinic administrators have tried many stratagems to cope with this problem. In any case, today's TB treatment is enormously simplified compared to a few decades ago. About 48,000 Americans still get the disease each year. Early detection and treatment increase the chance of good recovery. Your Christmas Seal association suggests a tuberculin test or a chest X-ray as part of your regular medical checkup.

SCHEDULE A
THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Village and Town of Marlborough, County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described generally as follows:

Good Heart, Health Habits Encouraged

A program to encourage formation of good heart and health habits in childhood, with the view of reducing the risk of heart attack in later years, has been launched by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association in conjunction with their 1968 Heart Fund Drive.

Here is a thumbnail resume of what parents are asked to do:

Get the latest heart-saving facts and share them with your children.

Stress the importance of normal weight. Obesity often begins in youth.

Form good diet habits by serving more foods low in saturated fats and fewer foods rich in cholesterol.

Encourage children to keep physically fit through regular exercise.

Teach children that smoking is bad for health.

Make doctor check-ups a family routine.

Owen R. Cheatham, national chairman of the 1967 Heart Fund Campaign, said the increased contributions from all segments of the public constituted a mandate for the American Heart Association to continue and expand its ceaseless fight against devastating cardiovascular ills.

"Diseases of the heart and blood vessels are the nation's number one killer, taking more than a million lives yearly — more than half of all causes of deaths combined. Additionally, more than 22 and a half million others in this land suffer from cardiovascular diseases, making these diseases the country's leading health menace," Cheatham pointed out. He added: "Great progress has been made in the fight against these dread ailments, especially since the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1949. Through ever-increasing public support over the years, the American Heart Association has been able to channel 133 million Heart Fund dollars into scientific research which has helped to save thousands of lives."

Criticism From Lane
CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — Dissent in the United States is being stifled "under the guise of national security," Mark Lane, a critic of the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, says.

As a result, Lane said Wednesday at St. Lawrence University, the "United States is becoming more and more of a closed society."

"It is unfortunate that the government has relegated many vital files on the assassination case to the national archives until the year 2039," Lane added.

Man Arrested After Threat to Two Troopers

A 67-year-old Walkkill man was arrested early today by Highland State Police on a charge of reckless endangerment after he allegedly pointed a 20-gauge shotgun at two state troopers and threatened them.

Trooper P. A. Koenig said he and Trooper B. S. O'Connor went to the home of Samuel and Edith Van Steenburgh on Bruin Turnpike, Walkkill, shortly before 2 a. m. to investigate a complaint involving a family dispute.

Koenig and O'Connor spoke to the couple and neither wanted to file formal charges against the other. Troopers said as they were walking back to the police car, Van Steenburgh appeared at the door of his home and pointed the gun at them and warned them not to come back or he'd "blow their heads off."

Examination of the gun showed it was not loaded.

Van Steenburgh was taken into custody and later taken before Shawangunk Town Justice M. J. Oscar Smith, who deferred arraignment until 5 p. m. today. Van Steenburgh was committed to the county jail in lieu of $100 bail pending disposition of the charge.

Dear Abby

Secret Wedding, a Problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I recently married Barney secretly. We are both 25. Barney had never been married before, but I was a divorcee with three children. Barney wants to wait at least a year before telling his mother about our marriage. I know he loves me and the children, but he says his mother won't understand his marrying a woman with a ready-made family. I know I have a limited education and I feel somewhat inferior to his mother, but she couldn't love Barney any more than I do.

Please help me express my feelings to Barney and convince him that it's best for his mother to know about us. He is in the service and will be going overseas for a year soon. Thank you.

BARNEY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Barney is foolishly trying to postpone a difficult and disagreeable task, but he is only kidding himself. His mother won't "understand" any better a year from now. Furthermore, a service man's marriage must become a matter of record, and as such, it would be practically impossible to keep it from his mother for long.

If Barney deliberately keeps it off his record, he is being unfair to you, and asking for trouble. If you can't persuade Barney to tell his mother now, suggest that he talk it over with his chaplain and let HIM explain why he must.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son in his early teens, and we were recently blessed with a very much wanted and prayed-for baby daughter!

We feel so fortunate that the good Lord sent us this beautiful child and are completely thrilled about it. But why do some people take the joy out of such happiness, and hurt new parents just because they happen to be 40 years old, or a bit older?

How do we answer these so-called friends who ask, "Was it a mistake?"

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "WORRIED," who, at age 14 had already been to "second and third base," I had to write.

I know a girl who started to date at 14. She not only got to "second and third base," she's been to home plate. Now, at age 15, she's got a reputation that won't quit.

No matter what anybody says, a 14-year-old girl is TOO young to date. They all think they are mature enough to control themselves, but it doesn't seem to work out that way. I know.

At 15, I got to "second base," and was well on my way to third when I came to my senses. Thank God my parents wouldn't let me date until I was 16. If I could get as far as I did in my living room, I dread to think how far I could have gone in a car.

I am much wiser now, and I'm glad the only reputation I have is that "I am fun to be with."

So, Abby, keep telling girls not to grow up too fast. It isn't worth wrecking your teen years for. You'll be glad you waited. I know, I am.

16 AND HAVING FUN

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GO OR STAY HOME?" If your husband "begs" you to accompany him on some of his business trips, go as often as possible. I'd rather have someone else to take care of my children than my husband.

Today's hand has appeared in print many times before. It was played by Belladonna at the European championships at Ostend in 1965 and is really one of the classic safety plays of all time. He was third hand and reached four spades the same way everyone else did. He just bid it. Unlike the others, he made his contract.

The king of diamonds was opened at each table and every declarer except Belladonna proceeded to lead a heart toward dummy's king. East won with the ace and returned a trump whereupon there was no way to avoid the loss of three heart tricks and the king of trumps. How did Belladonna make the contract?

It isn't easy to see when you look at all the cards, but he handled it with ease. At trick two he entered dummy with the ace of clubs and played the four of hearts. West won with the queen but could do nothing better than to lead a club. Belladonna ruffed and played a second heart. East was in with the ace and led a trump, but Belladonna rose with the ace, ruffed his last heart and conceded a trick to the king of spades.

It doesn't look like much of a play from here, but just see how effective it was and how sure it was. Suppose for example that East held the queen of hearts. If he ducked with it, the jack would either hold the trick or force the ace; if he rose with it, Belladonna would be left with the jack in his hand and the king in dummy and would have no way to lose two more heart tricks.

Of course, Belladonna's play might have cost him an over-trick in the event that West held the ace of hearts, but the Italians always play for the contract and treat overtricks as just a pleasant luxury. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Funnies... Video Style

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The newspaper comic strip gets the glamor treatment of television Sunday night, and the person in charge of festivities is handyman Carl Reiner.

Called the Jokes
"I'm delighted," said the actor, writer-director and producer. "After all, the comics are very close to all Americans; the first thing you read in life is the funny page. I can remember sitting on my father's lap in Brooklyn while he read the jokes to me. That's what we called them: the 'jokes,' not comics or funnies."

He used to follow the words with a toothpick, I got so that I would take a toothpick to him and say, 'Read me the jokes.' Everyone else has some early memory of encounters with the funny papers. I can recall the long ago days when Los Angeles and Hollywood had eight daily newspapers, each with a page of comics. My father brought all of the papers home, and I could spread them on the floor and gorge myself with funnies.

Will Jog the Memories
Such memories will be jogged Sunday night when NBC presents "The Fabulous Funnies" as a special pre-empting "Boyz n the City." Executive producer is Lee Mendelson, who has had much success with the "Charlie Brown" specials.

"Mendelson is the one who approached me," said Reiner. "He did it in a most effective way. He said that he had presented a list of 12 possible emcees for the show to the National Cartoonist Society members."

"He told me that the others were said to be 'too old' or 'not funny' or whatever. Ninety per cent of the members voted for me. Well, that's pretty hard to resist."

Narration and the Voice
Reiner not only narrates the special; he also provides voices for all of the comic characters, including Little Orphan Annie and Brenda Starr. He also becomes a cartoon figure himself. As he talks, he becomes a drawn caricature of himself, then he wanders into the comics strips and the characters come alive. Among them: Nancy, Prince Valiant, Henry, Dick Tracy, Peabody.

The special will also depict cartoonists at work.

State Business Leaders:

A Taxing Situation

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Segments of the state's business community sketched for the Legislature today a grim picture of New York's economic future which they contend would emerge if Gov. Rockefeller is given his way on proposals to spend $5.5 billion and raise business and personal income taxes. Weighted down with pleas advanced Wednesday for more spending in the 1968-69 state budget than Rockefeller contemplates, the Legislature's fiscal committees turned their attention today to cries for more economy in government.

The Senate Finance and Assembly Ways and Means Committees gathered at the Assembly Chamber to hear what the public thinks about the governor's plans to finance administrative activity and construction work.

Wide Range

It isn't exactly a secret that the lawmakers might suffer mild shock if more than one of the private citizens showed up to comment on the budget. Nonetheless, a wide range of organizations responded to the call for opinions on the record high spending document.

The dire forecasts offered to-day included this assertion by a businessmen's organization — the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, which said:

"The spending and tax increases proposed in the 1968-69 budget endanger the economic security of the people of New York State."

Rockefeller is calling for a 20 per cent increase in personal income taxes, and boosts in business taxes as the base of his revenue program for the coming year.

He also wants a cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline levies and a dime-a-fifth boost in the liquor tax. Indications are that those proposals may well be cast aside by the lawmakers.

Since the business community has not been hit with tax increases in nearly a decade, the mood of the lawmakers appears to be favorable to such increases.

That sentiment perhaps was best echoed last year by Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki. The jaunty little Democratic leader went before the Empire State Chamber of Commerce and, while discussing future tax possibilities, told the businessmen:

"High Tax State"

"You're next!"

The Empire State Chamber dispatched a spokesman to today's hearing and instructed him to suggest an alternative to the tax proposals.

C. Raymond Cahoon, the spokesman, suggested that, if the proposed levies "were needed," the increase which would "do the least harm to the state's economy" would be an increase in the sales tax.

$15,000 YMCA Gift

A gift of $15,000 from the Dunham Tunnel and Excavation Corporation to the YMCA Building Fund Campaign was announced by N. LeVan Haver, general campaign chairman, in commenting on the gift. Haver said, "This is one of the early commitments from commercial and industrial firms in the area. We are most pleased with this generous company gift. It symbolizes the interest of the corporation in the civic life of the community and in the YMCA particularly."

Mrs. Maria J. Dunham, treasurer of the corporation, representing the officers of the company of which Walter D. Dunham is president, said, "We are very happy to be a part of the campaign for a new YMCA building. Certainly, after all these years the Y needs this new and modern plant if it is to meet its responsibility to the youth and adults of the area and to keep pace with a growing community. We believe that business generally has a deep responsibility to this most worthwhile project."

The gift from the Dunham Tunnel and Excavation Corporation grew out of a recent visit to the YMCA at Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue by Mrs. Maria J. Dunham. After seeing the conditions under which the Y is attempting to operate and serve the youth of the community, the officers of the corporation met and determined the gift. In commenting on the YMCA program, Mrs. Dunham indicated that she was so impressed by the quality of the activities at the Y being conducted under such difficult circumstances that she plans to make a personal gift to the Y, in addition to the corporation pledge.

Mrs. Dunham has long been active in civic and community affairs in Kingston and throughout the State of New York. She is a member of the State of New York Women's Council, the American Indian Affairs Organization, Council Resource for the American-Korea Foundation, past president of the First Presbyterian Church, member of the Professional Women's Club of Kingston and many other civic organizations throughout Ulster County. During the current campaign for the Y she is working with the Communities Division of the Campaign in soliciting friends of the Y.

The Y building fund campaign for $1,860,000 was launched Tuesday night at the Clinton Hotel at which time Paul Coon was elected new president of the organization.

The organizer of the thriving Social Credit Party of Alberta, Canada, William A. Berhart, lived from 1878 to 1943. He served as premier of Alberta from 1935 until his death.

$15,000 YMCA Gift

A gift of $15,000 from the Dunham Tunnel and Excavation Corporation to the YMCA Building Fund Campaign was announced by N. LeVan Haver, general campaign chairman, in commenting on the gift, Haver said, "This is one of the early commitments from commercial and industrial firms in the area. We are most pleased with this generous company gift. It symbolizes the interest of the corporation in the civic life of the community and in the YMCA particularly."

Mrs. Maria J. Dunham, treasurer of the corporation, representing the officers of the company of which Walter D. Dunham is president, said, "We are very happy to be a part of the campaign for a new YMCA building. Certainly, after all of these years the Y needs this new and modern plant if it is to meet its responsibility to the youth and adults of the area and to keep pace with a growing community. We believe that business generally has a deep responsibility to this most worthwhile project."

The gift from the Dunham Tunnel and Excavation Corporation grew out of a recent visit to the YMCA at Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue by Mrs. Maria J. Dunham. After seeing the conditions under which the Y is attempting to operate and serve the youth of the community, the officers of the corporation met and determined the gift. In commenting on the YMCA program, Mrs. Dunham indicated that she was so impressed by the quality of the activities at the Y being conducted under such difficult circumstances that she plans to make a personal gift to the Y, in addition to the corporation pledge.

Mrs. Dunham has long been active in civic and community affairs in Kingston and throughout the State of New York. She is a member of the State of New York Women's Council, the American Indian Affairs Organization, Counsel Resource for the American Korea Foundation, past president of the First Presbyterian Church, member of the Professional Women's Club of Kingston and many other civic organizations throughout Ulster County. During the current campaign for the Y she is working with the Communities Division of the Campaign in soliciting friends of the Y.

The Y building fund campaign for $1,860,000 was launched Tuesday night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel at which time Paul Coon was elected new president of the organization.

The organizer of the thriving Social Credit Party of Alberta, Canada, William A. Berhart, lived from 1878 to 1943. He served as premier of Alberta from 1935 until his death.
